SUMMARY.

The London correspondent of the "New York Times" states that there is intense activity at the Admiralty.

It supports the belief, he says, that a trial of strength between Britain and Germany under sea is impending.

There is stated to be a universal desire for peace in Austria-Hungary on almost any terms.

The Emperor, the Empress, and the court are said to be endeavouring to secure independence from Germany.

Actual hunger prevails in the south of Hungary and in the southern Slav States.

It is stated that desertions owing to the underfeeding of the troops have increased threefold.

Unless a miracle happens, says the Budapest correspondent of the "Morning Post," famine in its worst form is inevitable.

Despite a favourable corn crop, Germany's food position is worse than in 1916, owing to the failure of the potato crop.

An official statement declares that the quantity of foodstuffs is very scarce, and says that strict organisation is necessary.

The Rothschilds of Paris have withdrawn £8,000,000 from the Swiss banks in view of the possibility of German invasion.

The Swiss Government's assurance that it intends to defend its territory has stopped a general withdrawal of French capital.

Swiss troops are lining the frontier between Schaffhausen and Basle, which has not hitherto been garrisoned.

The Paris "Matin" considers it improbable that Germany will carry out a spring offensive.

The British entered the enemy's trenches north-east of Neuville St. Vaast and inflicted casualties.

They also carried out a successful raid north-east of Festubert, and drove off an enemy attempt east of Fauquissart.

The French were successful in a coup-de-main between Pesperges and Trancee de Calonne.

The usual general cannonade prevailed on Sunday. It was particularly lively in the Verdun sector, and also in Alsace.

A German official message states:—The British penetrated a small section south-west of Le Transloy.

Lord Sydenham says the Germans are concentrating in Alsace, possibly contemplating an attempt of the Verdun type.

A more likely explanation, he thinks, is that the concentration is dictated by fear of the Allies assuming the offensive.

The Russians are reported to have repulsed two attacks west of Riga. The Germans fled in disorder.

A German official message states:—Russian attacks broke down with heavy losses on both banks of the River Aa.

All the Austro-German efforts on the Roumanian front during the past fortnight have been checked with great enemy losses.

The Germans have withdrawn all but four or five divisions, replacing them by Turks and Austrians.

The Russians attacked on both sides of the Kimpolung-Yakobeny road in Roumania.

After a stubborn fight they broke through fortified positions on a front of two miles.

German and Austrian official messages admit that their troops were compelled to withdraw under Russian pressure.

The White Star liner Laurentic, 14,892 tons, has been sunk off the Irish coast. She either struck a mine or was torpedoed.

A violent explosion occurred in a melinite factory in Paris. The casualties are believed to have been under 20.

The United States Embassy in London states that Britain has enlarged the North Sea area, which is dangerous for shipping.

American officials say it is designed to prevent egress from German ports, Heligoland, or the Kiel Canal.

Intense cold prevails throughout Great Britain. The Serpentine in Hyde Park is frozen.

The State Cabinet yesterday discussed the position of the public works policy as the outcome of shortened loan funds.

It was agreed that the Premier should receive a deputation from the Labour Council, and explain the situation.

"Some measure of shrinkage in the volume of public works is unavoidable," remarked Mr. Holman after the meeting.

It is intended to press on with the works for completion.

The report of the board of directors of the Y.M.C.A., submitted at the annual meeting, showed that the past year had been one of achievement.

The field service work in the military camps had been more than quadrupled.

It was reported that 238 members had enlisted. Mr. W. J. Crane was elected president.

The Coal Board adjusting differences between the mine owners and the employees dealt with disputed points yesterday.

Mr. Justice Edmunds will visit the Richmond Main colliery to-day in connection with the dispute at that mine.

The driver of a motor car was fined yesterday for driving on the near side of a tram before the roadway was clear.

The 266th Australian casualty list records the names of 132 dead and 190 wounded.

At a meeting of subscribers to the Women's Hospital the officers were elected, Judge Backhouse being president.

The Newtown Bridge is to be improved and widened by the resumption of premises in the vicinity.

The trouble at the Lithgow ironworks following on the strike at the blast furnaces has been settled.

The union accepted the terms offered by Hoskins, Limited, for the steel furnaces. Work will probably be resumed to-day.

A remarkable story was told at the Central Police Court in a case of alleged conspiracy in connection with a farmer's marriage.

The memorial-stone of a new school and church in St. Joseph's parish, Burw[illegible] district was laid by Archbishop Kelly.

The Flinders River at Hughenden is in flood, and has backed up Station Creek for some distance.

As heavy falls have occurred on the head waters of the Thompson, it is feared that Muttaburra and Longreach will be flooded.

A seaman named William Harbin fell from the mast to the deck of a steamer in Woolloomooloo Bay yesterday, and was killed.

It was stated in the Industrial Court that threats to strike would result in prompt action by the Minister.

The State Recruiting Committee is making a special appeal to young men to enlist.

Important speeches were delivered by Federal and State representatives at the annual luncheon of the Australian Natives' Association.

The revenue of the railways and tramways for the second quarter of the financial year shows a considerable decrease.

The market for investment scrip on the Stock Exchange was unusually quiet yesterday; values were inclined to weaken.

In Mining stocks the Edna May group commanded attention. Copper shares were firm, but Barrier and tin were neglected.

Business was normal in the dairy produce section of the Sussex-street markets. Eggs were in strong demand.

The market was well supplied with butter. Fair stocks of bacon were on hand, and trade was brisk.

An active business was done in tea, principally for export to New Zealand.

The total pennings of sheep and lambs at Homebush yesterday was the smallest for a long time.

The market was not quite as good as on Thursday, but values were rather better than on Monday week.

There was free competition for cattle. A slight improvement in the average prices of last sale day was reported.

Forecast.—Showers on the central, south coast, and tablelands; fine elsewhere, with mild southerly winds.

A FAMILY PHOTOGRAPH,
A FAMILY PHOTOGRAPH.
A FAMILY PHOTOGRAPH.
A FAMILY PHOTOGRAPH.

The old-fashioned stereotyped way of taking a Family Photograph pleased the generation of the past; but to-day we pay more attention to the artistic arrangement, and usually succeed in pleasing all concerned.

Get that family group taken whilst you are all together, for the time will come when separation will be inevitable, and a reunion may be impossible, then how much you will wish that you had a family portrait group.

Nothing preserves the home atmosphere and home memories like a good photograph, especially a family group-picture, with father and mother in the centre. One never knows what changes time may be holding in store, and then how welcome a group picture will be, with its possibilities of a copy for each member of the family, and its retention of happy memories, though all may be scattered far and wide. Don't delay, get photographed at the Crown Studios.

WHY THIS IS A DELICIOUS PIE.

A piping hot
Apple Pie made
with

IRELAND'S BAKING POWDER

is better than the average Apple Pie, for the simple reason the ingredients are better. Just one bite of pastry, scones, cakes, etc., made with it and back comes your childhood appetite. Good? The thousands of women who always order "Ireland's Baking Powder, please," are proofs that it is reliable—always uniform in quality.

IS IT COMFORTABLE?

First, last, and all the time, that is the Corset Buyer's greatest concern. Sometimes a woman will be content with a "nearly" comfortable Corset rather than change the brand lest a worse fate befall her.

KABO.
THE LIVE MODEL
CORSETS,

have been called "The Corsets of happy figures," because so many women have found real bodily ease for the first time in a Kabo. This is partly due to the light duplex steel boning, which is wonderfully light, durable, flexible, and supporting.

But the credit of comfort must be given largely to the manner of designing. Kabo Corsets are drafted on ninety-seven living models in sitting, standing, reclining, bending, and other positions.

Buy a Kabo Corset and have Real Comfort now and for ever.
Leading Retailers sell them.

WHAT A FLY'S LEG DID.

A bookkeeper in a wholesale house in 'Frisco passed sleepless nights for three weeks in fruitless efforts to make his books balance. There was an apparent shortage of 900 dollars that could not be accounted for. He added up columns and struck balances until he was almost insane. He finally worked himself into the frame of mind that usually lands a man in a lunatic asylum, or a suicide's grave, when the manager of the house invited his confidence. Then they went over the books together, but the 900-dollar shortage was still there.

The head of the house was called in, and the work of overhauling the accounts commenced again.

The two had not gone far before they came to an entry of 1900 dollars. "Why, that should be 1000 dollars," declared the employer. "How did it happen to be entered 1900?"

A careful examination showed that a fly had been crushed between the pages of the cash-book, and one of its legs made a tail of the first cipher of the 1000 dollars entry, converting it into a 9.

There is NO MISTAKE about the following prices—they are absolutely bedrock:—

CHAPTER XII.—Continued.

Leaning further out, she put down her hands to their cage. The two long plaits of hair fell, touching the birds' cage.

"Sleep, little sisters," she said softly.

She thought she heard the window below hers opened stealthily. It was the window of the nurse's room. She withdrew her head quickly, and blew out the light. A little later, listening like a hare in the darkness, she heard the window below drawn down very quietly.

She was asleep when there was a fumbling at her door, a hand that turned the handle and opened it a little way. Bill woke up from his sleep and growled, his spine rising in a ridge. The door was drawn to so quickly that the sound awoke Sylvia.

The room was flooded with the moonlight, and a little wind was stirring the curtains of the open window. The doves were awake and cooing sleepily. Bill, with another warning growl, went back and settled himself on his blanket. The distant church clock pealed out five strokes.

"It is morning," Sylvia said to herself blissfully, and turned to rosy sleep again.

She had forgotten that half-awakening when Nurse Smith intercepted her on the stairs next morning. She was carrying up a breakfast tray, having as usual, prepared Mr. Trehearne's breakfast with her own hands.

"Your uncle is much bedder dis morning," she said. "You will see him when he has had his breakfast."

"Very well, I shall come up," Sylvia answered, and made to go on her way, but the woman stopped her.

"I haf had a queer dream this nide," she said. "I dreamed your window was open and you had down fallen. I awoke in a cold berabiration, and I feld I had to go for to see. I wanted to feel you, to pass my hands over your face and hair, to know you were in dot bed safe. Your ugly dog growled. He vridened me. I had forgotten he was there. I went away fery quickly."

"I thought I heard a noise," Sylvia replied, "but I only half awoke. I fancied I had left the door ajar and that the wind blowing through the open window had shut it. Indeed, I am very glad Bill did not let you come in. I should not at all have liked your feeling my face."

"It was to see dot you wer dere. I thought you haf vallen out of dot window. If you had you would be just one splash."

She brought the last word out with great vehemence.

Sylvia shuddered, but laughed as she ran downstairs.

After breakfast she went up to her uncle's room. He was looking very pale and dull, sitting up in his dressing-gown, and the nurse was bustling about the room setting things straight. Sylvia ran to her uncle and he took her face between his hands and kissed it fondly.

"My darling," he said, "you must never run such a danger again else you will kill your old uncle. I was distracted till kind Nurse Smith sent me off asleep."

"I haf given him noding," said the woman, turning about. "It has only been suggestion."

"It is quite true," said the patient. "My medicine which I used to take for sleeplessness was all gone. Nurse's way was much better."

"You shall haf no more of that medicine," said Nurse Smith with emphasis.

The poor gentleman blushed.

"Indeed, I am much better since I have done without it," he said humbly. "Nurse's way is much the best."

"I shall haf you well in a few days," she said. "If you are goot I shall haf you well. You will be out of the house, triving, and after that, walking, if you will be goot."

She took the breakfast-tray in her hands and went off with it. They heard her feet in their heelless slippers descend the stone stairs. Her visits to the downstairs regions were very often lengthy ones, from which she returned with a flushed face and a light of battle in her eye.

"I really believe she can make me well when she likes, Sylvia," Mr. Trehearne said. "I feel ever so much better this morning, especially since I have seen your bonny face. Open the window, dearie. I long for fresh air; but we must listen for her return else she will be angry."

He said nothing at all about Rupert Beauclerk. Was it possible Nurse Smith had not told him? She had always been so fond of making mischief.

Sylvia poured out the tale herself while her uncle lay back with closed eyes. She was grateful for the closed eyes. She tried to make her voice as little conscious as possible while she hurried through her tale.

"So he went off to 'The Dragon,' her uncle said, in a perturbed and weary voice, when she had finished. "That was quite what I should have expected of his father's son. I suppose, in the circumstances, you could hardly help offering him hospitality—but it showed a sense of rightness on the young man's part to feel that he could not stay. I shall write and thank him for what he did for you, of course; and now we need not talk about it any more. You must be very careful with the boat for the future."

For once Sylvia was moved to protestation.

"Uncle," she said, "why have we no friends? Why does no one ever come here? Why am I cut off from all companionship of my own age? Why are you, who love books and music, and pictures, and travel, shut up in a place like this?"

He opened his eyes and stared at her.

"Do you mind so much, little girl?" he asked. "I am so sorry. But I cannot let the world in here. I cannot. Believe me, it is for your own sake."

He spoke with a strange vehemence.

"Am I like Deirdre in the play?" she asked, piteously.

The door opened with such suddenness as to suggest that Nurse Smith had been listening outside, and the nurse entered.

"Himmel! what a draught," she said, going to the window and closing it violently.

"You haf been a bad girl, Sylvia," she said; "you haf disturbed your uncle very mooch. I shall not troost you mid him again."

So ignominiously was Sylvia dismissed.

CHAPTER XIII.

THE GIANT'S GRAVE.

She described the scene a little later for Rupert Beauclerk, and was excited out of her usual gentle patience.

"Just think," she said. "She calls me by my name, and my uncle does not seem to notice it. She will not take a snub. If it were not for Lizzie's sturdiness she would rule everything."

"Ah!" he said, "I am very glad you have Lizzie. She has an honest face, and she is obviously devoted to you. If you had not Lizzie I should have to do something—mount guard over Carn Gluze all night perhaps—"

Sylvia had always spent her time out of doors when it was at all possible. The weather continued very fine. By this time Rupert had made up his mind to spend the remaining three weeks of his leave at "The Dragon," of which he reported very well. The people had the simple virtues of cleanliness, honesty, and efficiency. He revelled in the clean sweetness of the old inn, standing amid its shining China asters, its stocks and sweet-william and sweet peas, the orchard beyond hung with fruit golden and rosy and purple.

Their friendship was a fortnight old when he said to her, looking up from where he lay stretched along the yellow sands at her feet:

"In a week's time I shall have to go back."

She had a big sun-umbrella over her head where she sat on her rock. It was a holland, lined with pink. She shifted it a little so that he should not see her face.

"I don't believe you care a bit," he said, watching her face from under the brim of his straw hat, which he had pulled over his eyes. The colour had spread over her cheek and touched even her white neck and delicate ears.

She turned and looked at him. The colour was ebbing away again. Her eyes of deepest blue regarded him gravely. They had an expression as though he had hurt her.

"I shall miss you greatly," she said, simply, like a child. "It will be so much worse for me than for you. You are going back to the world. I shall be alone again, as I was before you came."

"I am not satisfied that you should be alone," he said. "It is cruel; it is unnatural. Before I go I shall beard that German gorgon and insist on an interview with your uncle. I shall tell him that it is wrong to keep you secluded as he does. Why, you might as well be in a nunnery."

"Much better," she said. "You don't know how cheerful it is at the convent. At recreation we used to hear the young nuns in the garden laughing and chattering. They were much gayer than we were."

MOTORIST FINED.

At the Water Police Court yesterday, George Arthur Goddard was proceeded against for driving a motor car on the near side of a tram before the roadway was clear of persons entering and leaving the tram.

It was stated by the police prosecutor that the practice of driving motor cars at a fast rate alongside stationary trams was a growing menace to the public safety. Defendant admitted that he was travelling at a rate of 18 miles an hour.

Defendant was fined £6, or in default, two months' hard labour.

LAW REPORT.

INDUSTRIAL COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Edmunds.)

BLACKLISTED BUTCHERS.

A dispute as to the closing time of butchers' shops, as the result of which ten master butchers are alleged to have been blacklisted to prevent them obtaining supplies of meat, was the subject of an application before the Court.

Mr. Chubb (instructed by the Crown Solicitor) appeared on behalf of the Minister for Labour and Industry, and asked that the Australian Meat Industry Employees' Union (N.S.W. Branch) should be called upon to show cause why their registration should not be cancelled, on the gound that they had endeavoured unlawfully to compel certain master butchers to close their shops at 5 p.m., instead of 5.30, as allowed by the award governing the industry. Ten master butchers who had refused to comply with the demand had, said Mr. Chubb, been blacklisted by the men, who had instructed the wholesale carcase butchers not to supply them with any meat, under threat that if they did so the slaughtermen would be called out on strike.

Numerous affidavits were read in support of the application, showing that the master butchers in question had been unable to obtain supplies from carcase butchers owing to the action of the union. The Trolly and Draymen's Union had also threatened to refuse to deliver meat to the butchers who would not close at 5 o'clock.

His Honor granted a rule nisi, calling upon the Meat Industry Employees' Union to show cause why their registration should not be cancelled, and made it returnable on February 12.

BREADCARTERS' CASE.

This case is reported in another column.

QUARTER SESSIONS.

(Before Judge Docker.)

Mr. A. F. Dawson, Crown Prosecutor.

CHARGE OF BREAKING AND ENTERING.

Ethel Violet May Benn, a married woman, who was undefended, pleaded not guilty to a charge of having, on the 6th inst, broken and entered the dwelling house of Eliza Scott, at Ashfield, and stolen therein three rings, a brooch, and some articles of clothing. The accused was further charged with receiving the said property.

The accused denied the charge, and stated that the Crown witnesses were mistaken in their identification of her.

The jury returned a verdict of guilty, and the prisoner was remanded for sentence.

CHARGE OF SHOOTING.

Lee Yick, an elderly Chinese, was charged with maliciously shooting at Alfred Hamilton Lynch with intent to do him grievous bodily harm. The accused was further charged with assaulting the prosecutor. The alleged offences occurred at Botany on October 26 last. Lee Yick, who pleaded not guilty, was defended by Mr. J. J. Carroll. The Crown case was that on the date stated the accused fired a revolver at the prosecutor, who was a workman at a tannery, which adjoins the accused's market garden.

For the defence evidence was given that while accused was standing in his cart a stone was thrown by one of the tannery hands, which struck off the accused's hat. The prosecutor, Lynch, it was alleged, used offensive language to the accused, who took his revolver from the tool box of the cart and fired high in the air to frighten Lynch. It was also stated that the manager of the tannery had, owing to complaints from the accused, cautioned his employees not to interfere with the Chinese working next door.

His Honor said that no doubt that gross provocation had been offered to the accused, who had been grossly insulted. This, however, did not justify the accused in firing the revolver at the prosecutor.

The jury found Lee Yick not guilty of the first count of maliciously shooting, but guilty on the second count of assault, with a strong recommendation to mercy on account of the provocation he had received.

His Honor said that he did not propose to sentence Lee Yick at all. He ordered him to be bound over to come up for sentence if called upon within 12 months. Referring to the persons alleged to have provoked the assault, his Honor said it would be much better and more manly if these young men enlisted and faced the Germans instead of interfering with these Chinese.

MALICIOUS WOUNDING.

Edwin Allen Elliott, a young man, was charged with having, at Sydney, on the 12th ult., maliciously wounded Sadie Royle, and also with assaulting her. The accused, who pleaded not guilty, was defended by Mr. Speer. The case for the Crown was that the accused had several times visited Marks's jeweller's shop in the Royal Arcade, ostensibly to meet a friend who wished to buy some scarf pins. In the forenoon of the 12th ult. Elliott again called at the shop and priced a pearl pin. Then he said he wished to leave his watch for repair as Mr. Marks had attended to it before. Miss Royle, who was alone, replied, "Very well;" and she turned to replace some articles of jewellery in the shop window. The accused then put his arm round her neck, and when she raised her arm she felt a sharp pain on her left elbow, which bled badly, saturating her blouse. She screamed, and the accused ran away, but was caught by a constable, who found a razor in another part of the Arcade.

The accused, who denied the charge, said that he was spoken to sharply by the prosecutrix, and he answered with bad language, whereupon she screamed, and said she would give him in charge to the police. He also said that he had no razor or other sharp instrument in his hand whilst he was in the shop.

The jury returned a verdict of guilty of maliciously wounding. The foreman added that, in the opinion of the jury, there had been great negligence in not informing the police that for several days a suspicious character had been frequenting the premises.

Elliott was remanded for sentence.

A FARMER'S MARRIAGE.

REMARKABLE STORY.

At the Central Police Court yesterday, before Mr. Macfarlane, S.M., May Hooks (or Petherick, or Jane Goodson), 40, Frank Henry Williamson, 49, and Gladys Williamson, 24, were committed for trial at the Quarter Sessions, charged with having, between August 1 and December 16, 1916, at Woy Woy, conspired amongst themselves to cheat and defraud William Hooks of divers large sums of money, amounting to £278.

Mr. E. H. Gardiner appeared for the accused Hooks, and Mr. F. M. Cohen for the Williamsons, the defence in respect of each being reserved.

Evidence was given by William Thomas Hooks that in August last, while on a farm, which he owned, at Moss Vale, he answered an advertisement which he saw in a Sydney newspaper, which ran as follows:—"Farmer's widow would like to meet farmer, middle-aged, with view to matrimony. Apply L. V., Newcastle P.O.," and received a reply signed "May Petherick," as a result of which he met her at Newcastle Station, on the 16th of the same month. She described herself as a farmer's widow, stating that her husband had been dead six years, and that she had a large farm of about 3000 acres in South Australia. At her suggestion, witness went with her to a house at Waratah, where she introduced him to the accused Gladys Williamson as her late husband's sister, and to the male accused as Frank Williamson, Gladys's husband. The male accused, when alone with witness, said that Mrs. Petherick had a large place in South Australia, and he thought the best thing she could do was to get married again, as the manager she had on the farm was leaving for the war.

After further evidence by Hooks, Detective Hooper, of Sydney, and Detective Britt, of Melbourne, gave evidence as to the arrest of the three accused in Melbourne, and statements made by the females were produced. In that by May Hooks it was stated that Hooks gave her the £278, and that she gave him £25 back for pocket money. She gave Williamson and Gladys Williamson £115, and the balance she kept for herself. Gladys Williamson in her statement said that it was arranged that Hooks should be given the slip in Sydney.

The two female accused were subsequently further charged with having on or about the 13th March, 1916, conspired together to cheat Harold Oscar Norris, of divers sums of money amounting to £30. On this charge also they were committed for trial.

BUILDINGS AND WORKS.

PROGRESS OF THE TRADE.

HIGH COST OF MATERIAL.

The year 1916 was the dullest in the building trades since the outbreak of war. From inquiries made by the Master Builders' Association, it appears that from November, 1915, to November, 1916, a falling-off of [illegible] per cent occurred in the delivery of bricks as compared with the period November, 1912, to November, 1913. The timber merchants' returns show even a greater falling-off in the deliveries over the same periods. The greatest falling-off last year occurred in the closing three months of the year.

There has been no improvement so far for this year. Everybody seems to be waiting to know the result of the war. The architects' offices are full of plans. But the majority of people have decided to wait a more favourable opportunity. Despite the fact that there are a large number of tradesmen out of employment just now, carpenters, bricklayers, and others, there is no lowering of wages, and, although, according to the annual report of the Master Builders' Association there is a falling-off from 50 to [illegible] per cent. in the demand for material, there is no attempt to reduce the price, which, in some instances, is 300 per cent. greater than it was before the war. The position summed up briefly, hundreds of workmen are idle, merchants supplying building material are unusually slack in business, and yet the high rate of wages and material prevents many people from carrying out building projects. At the present time there is a scarcity of vessels bringing imported goods, which represent 75 per cent. of the materials used in the erection of a building. After the war there is every possibility that freights will be easy, but material scarce. There is little chance, according to the leading architects and builders, that those who postpone building operations will be in any better position after the war than they are at present.

The Newcastle Master Builders' Association reports that the building trade generally in 1916 showed almost the same activity as during the previous year, principally with cottage construction. The building of several new business premises is, however, in abeyance owing to the war. It is estimated that £312,022 was expended last year in buildings in the Newcastle district. The Broken Hill Builders' Association reports passing through another year of financial stress. In other parts of the State the depression has also been felt; and it is likely to continue until the war is over.

DAY LABOUR.

The annual report of the Master Builders' Association of Sydney just issued contains the following reference to day labour:—"As has been pointed out in previous reports, the Government enterprises are not charged with all the expenses that would be charged against them if they were private enterprises, consequently they are able to show either a fictitious profit or smaller loss than would be the case otherwise. This is a matter into which the strictest inquiry should be made, and it is to be hoped that all Government enterprises will, in future, be charged with the proper amounts for services rendered, depreciation, etc., so that their true position may be apparent. The Minister has been asked by this association to receive a deputation to consider the question of day labour on Government works, and it is to be hoped that as a result of this deputation, a lot of the work which is now being carried on by day labour will be handed over to contractors; if so, there will undoubtedly be a direct and considerable saving to the State. In the past the State Government enterprises have had not only the advantages enumerated above, but have also had a preference of 10 per cent. over private enterprise in tendering for Government works or supplies. This is a distinctly unfair advantage, and should be no longer permitted."

BULK HANDLING.

Now that the introduction of bulk handling into this country is practically an assured fact, a strong effort is being made in some quarters to condemn the system. This attempt is somewhat belated, seeing that the system has been under discussion for so many years. It may be remembered that a few months ago Mr. R. B. Rees, M.L.C., a wheat-grower from Victoria, raised certain objections against bulk-handling in the course of an interview, which appeared in these columns. He was then on his way to America and England, and proposed to investigate further into the bulk-handling question. We have recently received a lengthy letter from Mr. Rees, written from London. That gentleman went away a strong opponent of the bulk-handling system, and it is not surprising to find that his opposition is supported by his investigations. There is little if anything new in his letter, of which, at present at least, space prevents publication in full, and he has summed concisely his reasons as follow, for his opposition to the proposal to introduce bulk-handling:—

First: Our system of harvesting requires portable containers to take the wheat at any part of the field where the harvester is working. There is not a practical suggestion in Metcalf's report to meet this difficulty, and Langdon's commission tardily admitted that bags will be required.

Second: Bags have to be used, being the best containers. They are weighed in with the wheat, and sold to bag dealers in England after being used from our paddocks in Victoria to the grain warehouses in Europe at an average of 4s per dozen, present price 6s 9d. This fact has studiously been kept in the background in all our discussions in Victoria.

Third: Wheat in bags commands a higher price at the ports of Europe, Asia, and Africa than wheat in bulk of equal quality.

Fourth: The convenience of a few farmers situated close to a railway station, where an elevator may be frequently operating, and where they can "bin" their wheat at leisure, must not outweigh the cost and inconvenience to farmers further out, and those who are forced to deliver their wheat at sidings. The inconvenience I saw at similar sidings in Canada would drive me out of wheat-growing.

Fifth: It would add much to the cost and work of harvesting if most farmers were compelled to cart the grain to a barn or grainery on the paddock or at the homestead, and then by double handling deliver at the elevator. The cost of extra horses—the regular teams being fully employed—the fitting out of two or three box waggons for each farm, and many other costly changes in plant and equipment, which I saw on big farms in Canada, would be a considerable tax on most of our farmers, and must be reckoned in the cost of this proposition.

Sixth: The cost to the State and to the farmers of changing our system from bags to bulk is quite an unknown quantity. Interest, depreciation, and maintenance charges are annual, whether we have wheat or not, and there is no return, as in the sale and use of the second-hand bags.

Seventh: Our shipping trade to and from Australia is mostly in parcel goods, and will require bagged wheat to fit in with other cargo. Freight charges will be higher on bulk wheat, except by certain tramp vessels.

Eighth: We cannot have a complete bulk system, as 15 to 25 per cent. of bagged wheat is required in bulk ships for "stiffening." Our farmers will, therefore, have a dual and more costly system than the present.

After all, Mr. Rees's basic objection is that raised at different times, that our system of harvesting is not, as is the case with the American system, adapted to bulk-handling, inasmuch as we take off the bulk of the wheat with the stripper-harvester or header, while in America the wheat is cut and threshed. This is really the strongest reason that the opponents of bulk-handling have. Most of them admit that it is the key of the position, and admit also that if means can be introduced to do away entirely with the use of bags on the farm, much of their argument disappears. We have always held the opinion that, while the most practical course will be probably to utilise bags at first on the farm in connection with the elevator system—to avoid any sudden and costly dislocation of the farm end of the industry—it would not be long before means will be devised to adapt our farming machinery to the elevator system, just as our inventors and machinery-makers have met other problems in the farming industry, that could be met by improved machinery. Some months ago we reproduced reports of the method adopted in the Pacific States of America, where some growers had handled their wheat in bulk on account of the high cost of bags, while using the harvester. A contrivance was attached to the particular harvester used, which carried the wheat from the harvester into a waggon travelling alongside, the grain being taken to a silo by the latter. According to the report this system was cheaper than the bag method.

Again, some time ago we referred to a silo designed by Mr. F. R. Nuske, a Victorian farmer, which promises to figure to an important degree in the inauguration of the bulk-handling system. Mr. Nuske, who is at present visiting Sydney, claims that his silo effectually meets any difficulty of working the bulk-handling of grain in connection with our harvesting methods. His silo is constructed of circular corrugated iron, and by the saving of bags would pay for itself in two seasons. Mr Nuske points out that if a silo with a capacity of, say, 500 bags, was put in the centre of a 100-acre paddock, the crop could be stripped in four sections with less hauling and labour than is now the case with the bags, which have to be collected and stacked. No labour would be required for filling and sewing bags, stacking them, etc. The harvester when full would pull out to the silo. The latter is put up in sections by unskilled labour. The first section would take 150 bushels or so from the box of the harvester by gravitation. Afterwards the grain would have to be elevated in by a hand elevator, work that could be done by a lad who, Mr. Nuske states, could keep three harvesters going. Once filled, a cover is placed on the silo, and the grain is safe from damage by the weather, fire, or mice. When it is desired to carry the wheat to the railway it can be emptied from the silo into a waggon fitted up for handling in bulk. We hear much of the great expense to be incurred by the farmer in adapting his machinery and working plant to the new system, but it does not seem necessary that it should be heavy. Against it, in addition to the saving in bags, there is the saving of waste and the saving of labour. Once a silo is erected it seems to us there will be a minimum of waste and labour in harvesting the wheat crop.

THE WHEAT POSITION.

ATTITUDE OF FARMERS.

HARDEN.—The following resolutions were carried at a meeting of the Murrumburrah branch of the Farmers and Settlers' Association, held at Harden on Saturday, Mr. N. Graham, president Shire of Demondrille, occupying the chair:—

That the wheat growing industry in this State is in a critical position, between the war, the seasons, the actions of our Governments, and the unsympathetic administration of our Wheat Boards, and immediate action is necessary to prevent a collapse in wheat growing.

Wheat growers recognise, as patriotic subjects, their duty to the Empire, and that every endeavour to augment the wheat yield of the world should be made.

That the principle of pooling the wheat was right under present war conditions.

That, in face of the decreased areas being cultivated, they decline to take the whole responsibility of same.

That the Rural Commission appointed, and which has cost the country some considerable expense, appears to be a blank.

That it is absolutely necessary that the Minister for Agriculture should have practical knowledge; that the personnel of the Wheat Board be altered; and that the staff employed by it be both competent and civil.

Failing immediate action being taken by the present National Government in the above direction, all primary producers in this State be called upon to only support candidates at the coming elections prepared to take the necessary action.

That the leading Sydney press be invited to send responsible members of their staffs into the principal wheat-growing areas to ascertain the exact position of the wheat industry, and to inform the public, whose prosperity so much depends on same, both in the country towns and the city and suburbs. In one of the best wheat-growing districts in the Commonwealth as this is, in face of a complete collapse in wheat growing, drastic action is now necessary, and it is hoped that the Sydney press will respond to the invitation to find out for themselves the actual position.

That the minimum price for wheat until after the war be fixed at 4/6 cash at the nearest railway station.

The opinion was expressed that, seeing the English Government is taking steps to ensure a fair return to their own farmers, it is absolutely necessary for similar action here. Farmers are patriotic, but in face of bankruptcy cannot do the impossible. The public must do its share.

PRIVATE SALE TO BE NULLIFIED.

BERRIGAN.—The private purchase of 15,000 bags of wheat at 3s 3d per bushel at Berrigan has been brought under the notice of the Prime Minister and the Minister for Agriculture by the local branch of the Farmers and Settlers' Association. In reply, the hon. secretary (Mr. Griffiths) has received a communication stating that steps have been taken by the State Wheat Office to nullify such sales by refusing to issue certificates in the name of the purchaser. This action has been taken under one of the regulations of the pool, which states that wheat can only be received into the pool in the name of the farmer growing it.

Mr. S. C. Browning, Uralla, writes to the effect that the proposed guaranteed price of 3s per bushel for wheat grown next year is not sufficient, as the farmers' expenses are so much greater. He says:—"The Imperial Government is guaranteeing the English farmer 8s per bushel for what wheat he can grow, why does it not take a hand here and protect our farmers from the shippers, who charge such enormous freights for the carriage of our wheat, that they are making huge fortunes, while the farmer is being ruined. Wheat is selling to-day in London at 10s 3d, and the farmer is only getting 3s 9d free of cost for his wheat here. The cost of marketing being about 6s 3d, which is out of all proportion. If Mr. Grahame wishes to encourage the farmers to grow more wheat he wil have to increase the minimum to at least 4s free of cost."

THE FRUIT GLUT.

Mr. O. C. Barberie writes:—In his letter "Wharfinger" says that the fruit glut could be got over by growers holding weekly sales by auction. This is very good as far as it goes, but very few people will attend these places, and those that do would mostly buy to again hawk and retail it. Besides, most growers have not a great variety ripe at one time. This is where the trouble comes in. Most people do not want a whole or even a quarter of a case of one sort of fruit, and, what is more, they will not carry it home. At present anyone can go to the markets and buy at the same price as the fruiterers, but they don't, and the few that do find such difficulty in getting it home that they give it up, so the whole matter lies in the distribution. If a co-operative distributing society were started and the fruit sent into a central depot, where it could be sent out in mixed lots in a systematic manner, both grower and consumer would benefit. This could be done by asking both to pay a sum of £1 each to buy the necessary vehicles for distributing. The repacking and delivering would be the only cost between grower and seller. Anybody could then have a quarter-case or more of fruit coming from all parts, and mixed according to taste. The growers would have their cases returned at once from the depot, and the fruit delivered in cases belonging to the society. These would be collected systematically by the society. Distributing centres could be established in connection with the central depot, something the same as the large city firms have for delivering parcels. Distribution is so essential to the success that no plan is worthy consideration that does not include it, and co-operative effort the only economical way to overcome the solution.

BLACKTOWN.—Prices received for consignments of fruit from Sydney agents are low, in some instances barely sufficient to pay transit expenses; 5/ per bushel case is seldom topped for the primest fruit marketed.

PROPOSED EXPERIMENTAL FARM.

DUBBO.—Mr. J. Blakemore, Ballimore, is arranging a conference of district local authorities to consider the establishment of an experimental farm on the Bruck Reserve, near Beni, in the Dubbo district to be worked entirely by soldiers under the supervision of departmental experts. The Dubbo Farmers and Settlers' Association, at their annual meeting, decided to support the scheme.

DISTRICT ITEMS.

NOWRA.—The Nowra show will be held on February 14 and 15. With the prevailing exceptional good seasons there is every indication of it being a big success.

TENTERFIELD.—The Queensland Government has prolonged the border embargo on live stock by extending by proclamation the provisions of the Imperial Uses Act. Despite this, they are offering great quantities of dead meat to the southern States.

AUSTRALIAN PRODUCE ABROAD

DRIED FRUIT.

LONDON, Dec. 14.

In London, Australian sultanas are firm at late rates. In Bristol they are 108/ to 110/.

COPRA.

Copra is firm. South Sea Oct.-Dec. is valued at £38 10/, c.i.f. London.

RABBITS.

Refrigerated rabbits are of slow sale, owing to high prices. Ex store prices for recent arrivals of Sydney four, large, are 28/6 per case, with about 2/ down for other grades. On Smithfield market the price to dealers ranges from 22/ down.

HIDES, ETC.

In the Australasian section, at the last public sales of hides, etc., supply was limited to a few dry-salted ox and cow hides, which secured good relative value, and a representative line of salted New Zealand sheep pelts, which changed hands at an advance of 10/ per doz. 235 dry salted ox and cow hides offered and sold, avg. 24½lb, /16¼; seconds, avg 25lb, /15¼ per lb. 17,100 salted sheep pelts offered and sold; super, 80/ to 82/; 1st heavy, 71 to 81/; 2nd heavy, 70/; 1st light, 66/; 2nd light, 45/; thirds, 22/6; 1st lambs, 47/; 2nd lambs, 30/ to 32/; 3rd lambs, 20/ per dozen.

TALLOW.

At yesterday's sales there was good general demand; 1120 casks were offered, and 920 sold at about the previous week's level. The unsold lots were chiefly mutton, held at top rates. The following are closing quotations for Australasian sorts:—Mutton, fair to fine, 54/ to 58/; beef, good to fine, 54/ to 56/6; mixed, dull to good, 49/ to 52/.

RABBITSKINS.

At the last auctions of Australasian rabbitskins the catalogues were small. An active demand was encountered for all descriptions, and the whole supply changed hands at an advance of 20 to 25 per cent. on September rates for cutting skins. Thin-pelted furriers' grades were frequently 50 per cent. higher. 844 bales were offered and sold, as follows:—New Zealand: Fairly to well furred, 4/ to 6/9; fairly furred, 2/6 to 3/6; low in fur, 1/4 to 2/; suckers, small and wormy, 1/ to 1/3. Tasmanian and Australian: Fairly to well furred, 3/6 to 5/9; fairly furred, 2/2 to 3/; low in fur, /11 to 1/6; suckers, small and wormy, /10 to 1/2 per lb.

MEAT.

This week at Smithfield there has been more meat on offer than the trade could clear. The following are closing quotations:—Beef, States, chilled hinds, 7/2 to 7/6; fores, 5/8 to 5/10; Argentine, chilled hinds, 7/ to 7/4, fores, 5/8 to 5/10; frozen hinds, 6/2 to 6/6, fores 5/2 to 5/4; Uruguayan, chilled hinds 6/6 to 6/8, fores 5/4 to 5/6; Brazilian, chilled hinds 5/10, fores 4/10 to 5/; South African, frozen hinds 5/10 to 6/7, fores 4/10 to 5/2, chilled cow hinds 6/7 to 6/8, fores 5/4 to 5/8, frozen cow hinds 5/8, fores 4/6 to 4/10. Mutton, New Zealand 5/8 to 5/10, ewes 5/8; Australian, 5/8; Plate, 5/4 to 5/9; Patagonian, 5/2 to 5/8. Lamb, New Zealand 6/4 to 6/8, Australian 6/4 to 6/8, Argentine 6/ to 6/6. Chilled and frozen produce remains very firm. Frozen top bits are selling at 6/4 to 6/8. Canadian frozen fores sell at about 5/4, boneless beef from Canada is making from 5/4 to 6/4. New Zealand bull hinds 5/ to 5/4, and fores 4/4 to 4/8. A few New Zealand ox hinds have made 6/ to 6/2, and cows 5/8. Frozen tongues make 3/4 per doz; frozen tripe 5/4 to 5/6 per stone, ox kidneys 6/ per stone, ox hearts 1/6 to 2/ each, and ox livers 4/ to 4/2 per stone. Some prize beef from the Johannesburg show was on sale at Smithfield this week. There was room for improvement in butchering and handling, and the meat was fat and heavy for the London market. The beef brought 6/7 per stone for hinds, and 5/2 for fores.

CHEESE.

The cheese market has been at sixes and sevens owing to the threatened action of the Government in regard to commandeering the entire output of New Zealand cheese for the current season. The New Zealand factories offered the output at /8¾ per lb f.o.b., or slightly under 92/ per cwt. landed terms, ex wharf London. This was refused, and about three-fifths of the entire output was sold, in the ordinary way, from August to early November. Importers here sold again, and then the Government stepped in and commandeered the cheese in the "Arawa" and the "Rimutaka." If the whole New Zealand output is commandeered the difference between the /8¾ per lb f.o.b. at which the Government was originally offered the cheese and to-day's current quotations is estimated to amount to no less than £1,750,000. The price of Canadian cheese on spot is 128/ to 132/, and coloured up to 134/. Of New Zealand there is none.

SHOW DATE.

The Tilba District A., P., and H. Society will hold its next annual show on February 21 and 22.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

PEACH TIP MOTH.

P.H.—Your trees are attacked by the "peach tip moth." The Department of Agriculture advises that spraying with arsenate of lead protects the fruit from this pest, in the same way as it does apples and pears from the codlin moth. The young tips should be collected and burned as soon as they are noticed to be attacked and before the grub has left them, as this lessens the later brood. Bandages should also be placed on the trees and regularly examined, and any grubs found sheltering under them destroyed. The trees should be sprayed with lime-sulphur (winter strength) just before they blossom in the spring, in order to kill the grubs as they are hatched out.

THE WAR FIRST.

Unless the war is kept first in any discussion upon the present tangle in Federal politics the confusion will be increased, not reduced. The temptation is to look upon the situation from a personal point of view; and so the champions of or apologists for this leader or that are soon at cross purposes and the main issue is lost altogether. If, however, we look at things without respect of leaders or parties, and insist that neither matters in comparison with the interests of the Empire, and of the Commonwealth as an essential part of the Empire, a way opens for rational judgment. There would be little difficulty in agreeing as to the best course of action if half a dozen German raiders appeared off the Australian coast and held up our shipping or began to shell our towns. Even Mr. Tudor would hurry to a conference of leaders under such conditions, ready to surrender every political advantage for some sense of security in the union of counsels he at present despises. The war touching everybody to the quick would force unity for the purposes of defence: and now, because shells are not actually bursting in Melbourne or Sydney, there are interviews, and criticisms, and announcements, but no prompt action to meet a situation complicated beyond precedent. The Prime Minister has cleared the way to some extent by insisting that a representative from Australia must go to London to attend the coming Imperial Conference, and not a delegate like the High Commissioner who could only report and would possess neither the authority nor the ability which must have conscious contact with the Commonwealth behind to be effective. This does not imply that the Australian representative will be given a blank cheque, or is likely to be empowered to commit the Commonwealth to peace conditions or after-the-war proposals without affording the people a chance of considering them. But it does involve a delegation from these shores sent now and carrying the assurance of a united people that the war takes precedence of everything.

If Sir John Forrest looked at the position in this light he would not talk of a general election or begin to apportion blame for an inaction which is making Australia a by-word in the Empire. He would simply say that he was prepared to take office, or otherwise to support Ministers chosen to form a National Government if a portfolio were not offered him. But the last thing he would discuss would be a general election under existing conditions. The Imperial Conference is to sit directly, and the Prime Minister now says that a representative travelling from Australia must go to it. The subjects to be discussed will make our elections for the next ten years and more look small beside them; and those who put obstacles in the way will be pilloried for a generation as perished of soul and blind of vision. It will be said of them that they could not see the war and its possible consequences because of dust of their own raising, and because they put personal predilections or purposes before the demands of the greatest cataclysm in the world's history. We do not urge here that a National Government is imperative. It may be that the way out of the present impasse is by a political truce till the war is over, or by an armistice till the Australian representative returns. There must be some way by which local feuds may be neutralised; but its only possible opening lies through a recognition of the war as an awful fact which will not permit political parties, policies, or programmes to have any importance or even existence until we see daylight again. If our political leaders are watching one another distrustfully they are not likely to surrender their place while the party slogan is sounded. But if they admit that the first thing is to have Australia represented at the Imperial Conference, and the next to hold party strife in abeyance while the representative is away, we may reach the point at which it will be seen that a union of forces must continue till the war is over. This may seem a counsel of perfection, no doubt, because there are political leaders and thinkers in our midst whom nothing will move. They care little for the Empire, and are only concerned to make mischief. They are, in effect, Germany's best allies. Well, it is the business of every loyal citizen to see that he cannot by any chance be identified with them, and to place them in such strong light by a personal readiness for self-sacrifice that the people of Australia will make no mistake between their friends and their enemies.

THE WESTERN FRONT.

It is inevitable that the month of January should be filled with rumours of an offensive on a great scale by one or other of the belligerents. Scientific methods of warfare and modern stoicism have destroyed the belief that, in the north, active operations must be suspended throughout the winter. Last year General Ivanoff conducted a very important campaign in the Bukovina during December and January, and in the Caucasus the Russians planned the campaign which led to the capture of Erzerum. But on the Western front any consecutive series of attacks has been either interrupted or postponed, at least until January is over. Last year the interval came at the end of the operations which followed the September offensive of the Allies. It found the French and British convinced that their artillery was by no means equal to the task of breaking through the fortified lines of the Germans, and that the British had still much to do in the training of their officers before they could take a satisfactory part in a general advance. The end of 1915 and the beginning of 1916 were, therefore, occupied in the increased production of munitions, in the training of new armies, and in the formation of a unified plan of attack on all fronts. There was a great deal of talk of a coming spring offensive, but we know now from Sir Douglas Haig that both the British and French commanders were convinced that nothing but defensive war, interspersed with local attacks, should have been undertaken before 1917. But the British example at the beginning of the Somme movement is enough to show that the chances of effecting a complete surprise are regarded as too remote to be worth the abandonment of any part of an artillery preparation. In Lord French's time it had been thought that the enemy's positions might remain intact if only he could be prevented from bringing up reinforcements. At the Somme the benefit of any surprise was given to the French: the British allowed the enemy to concentrate his forces against them while they were doing their best not altogether successfully to destroy his fortifications. We may assume that this year each side will endeavour to keep the other so busy that there will be no concentration of troops at any vulnerable point. The same use as before will be made of rumours and of local attacks. But it is difficult to believe that this year will see such a surprise as was disclosed by the attack on Verdun last February. The four disastrous days were a warning, not only to the French, but to all the belligerents. This year, moreover, the conditions of the campaign have been defined by earlier battles as they had not been in 1915. The great campaign of 1916 has been interrupted, not ended, by the winter.

The two other points mentioned in the cables recently as starting points for an offensive are Verdun and Belfort. The most probable explanation of the recent battles near Verdun are that the French have striven hard and with considerable success to regain their freedom of movement, and that the Germans still intend, at whatever cost, to prevent them from doing so. The gap of Belfort has always been regarded by the German military leaders as a danger to their Rhine frontier. It was one of their grievances against Bismarck that he allowed the French to retain it after 1871. The partial Swiss mobilisation may very naturally be explained by the fear that one of the belligerents may suffer the fate of Bourbaki's ill-fated army in 1871, and be driven after defeat to seek refuge in Swiss territory. But though the French hold a fraction of Alsace, it seems unlikely that they would begin an offensive so far from their main armies, or from their allies. An offensive in this region would more probably be designed as the German reply to the Allies' plan of attack. The main scheme of the fighting of 1917 has been sketched many times, both by the Allied and by the German leaders. The Allies will rely on their numbers, on their artillery, and on their aircraft to break through the German lines, and on their new tactics to enable them to avoid paying an exorbitant price. The Germans will rely on the strength of their defences to make the cost to the Allies so heavy that they will be ready before the year is over to accept a compromise peace and thereby to acquiesce in a German victory. But this plan will not be carried through without attacks by the enemy, designed to divert the Allies from their main purpose. It may be that Belfort is to be the scene of the first of such attacks. In any case it is clear that the offensive of 1917 is intended to be decisive. The Allies recognise, as fully as the Germans, that neither side can continue this war for ever. They therefore do not hope to gain their victory by a process of attrition, nor do they fear to lose it by the occupation of their territory. They hope that the abundance and valour of their men, the quantity and the perfection of their technical equipment, and their tactical discoveries will enable them not only to break through the enemy's lines on a wide front but either to drive out or capture whole armies. No one believes that such victories will be gained in battles lasting a single day. But the British leaders believe that the results will be secured during this year if only the whole nation will throw itself into the task of keeping them supplied with men and munitions until the war is over. They have warrant for their hopes in two facts: in the experience of the latter part of the Somme campaign, and in the spectacle of the British people now fully possessed of the need of a speedy victory, and of their responsibility for it.

PERSONAL.

VICE-REGAL.

Captain the Hon. Bede Clifford, 22nd Royal Fusiliers, arrives in Sydney to-day to take up the duties of aide-de-camp to his Excellency the Governor.

The Director-General of Recruiting, Mr. D. Mackinnon, M.L.A., left Melbourne yesterday for Sydney. He will return to Melbourne on Thursday.

Brigadier-General J. Gellibrand, of East Risdon, Tasmania, is reported ill in hospital. He was previously reported as having been wounded for the second time.

The Rev. G. H. Cranswick, B.A., rector of St. Paul's, Chatswood, has accepted the incumbency of St. Paul's, Bendigo, in succession to Dean MacCullagh, who has retired.

THREATS TO STRIKE.

MINISTER TO TAKE PROMPT ACTION.

LAW MUST BE OBEYED.

That threats to strike will result in prompt action on the part of the Minister for Labour and Industry (Mr. Beeby) was stated in the Industrial Court yesterday, when the question of the cancellation of the registration of the Sydney and Suburban Breadcarters' Union of Employees came before Mr. Justice Edmunds.

Mr. Chubb, who appeared for the Master Bakers' Association as well as for the Minister said that the trouble had arisen through the non-payment of union contributions by a certain employee. The union had practically called upon the employer to pay the money, threatening to strike unless the money was paid. Since the rule nisi had been granted, however, the union had undertaken to pursue the proper legal course of applying to the Industrial Magistrate for an order against the defaulting unionist. The Minister therefore had instructed counsel to ask for the discharge of the rule, seeing that the industrial peace which he was seeking had been brought about. Mr. Chubb said he had been asked to say that the Minister felt it his duty, in the public interest, to act promptly when threats to strike were made in circumstances such as these. Whenever bodies, whoever they might be, acted in such a way he proposed always to have recourse to the Court.

Mr. J. Larter, who appeared for the union, said the latter had had considerable trouble for six months with the man in question. Unfortunately, their feelings had got the better of them, and they had done something that might possibly be interpreted as a mild threat.

His Honor: It was not very mild for the employer concerned. It meant ruin to him.

Mr. Larter: I don't think it was as bad as was anticipated, because on the day before the rule nisi was granted I gave definite instructions for the men to remain in their employment. He added that since then the union had acted in accordance with the law.

His Honor said he was glad of the assurance Mr. Chubb had given on the Minister's behalf, that he intended to enforce the Act with respect of threats of strike, and that unions in rebellion against the Act should not receive benefits under the Act. There was no alternative that he could see, and he did not think the Court should shut its eyes to the fact that those who were registered under the Act set up a state of anarchy in rebelling against it. He trusted efforts would be made to put this down, and that the applications of the Minister and the decisions of the Court would be inexorable in refusing to allow any offending parties to remain covered by the Act.

The rule nisi was discharged.

CABINET MEETING.

PUBLIC WORKS POLICY.

STATEMENT BY THE PREMIER.

State Ministers put in another full day in Cabinet meeting yesterday. The meeting, which began at 10.30 a.m., did not conclude till after 5 o'clock in the afternoon. At the conclusion, the Premier, Mr. Holman, stated that a variety of important matters had been under discussion, but a final decision on most of them had been still further postponed.

The proposal to utilise a small portion of the Domain for a temporary venereal clinic, he said, was discussed. Ministers, however, were very averse to it. Further information is to be obtained from the Sydney Hospital committee, and some alternative proposals mentioned by the Health Minister in the course of the discussion are to be further investigated.

The position of the public works policy, as the outcome of the shortened loan funds, was further discussed. It was agreed that the Premier should receive a deputation from the Labour Council and explain the position fully. "Some measure of shrinkage in the volume of public works is unavoidable," said Mr. Holman. "The annual rate of expenditure has been £8,000,000. It is now being reduced to £5,000,000. This is the outcome of conditions on the London money market. For this reason, great reduction is unavoidable in duplication work. Public works also have slackened down, including irrigation. This is bound to create a certain amount of hardship and of local disappointment. The Cabinet has given full consideration to schemes prepared by Mr. Ball (Minister for Works) for minimising this to the utmost extent. Our general plan will be to press on at present with works that are near completion. If any works have to be suspended, it will be those in the beginning stages."

"The question of the appointment of additional Arbitration Court Judges was again discussed at considerable length," said Mr. Holman, "being reconsidered to-day after Mr. Beeby's arrival. No final decision was reached, as certain personal inquiries have to be made."

The educational syllabus for the year was also considered. The Minister for Education expressed the view that the syllabus this year should contain subjects more directly connected with the war, and proposed to prepare a small handbook, to be included in the history course for senior pupils. This proposal was warmly approved by the Cabinet, and Mr. James was authorised to carry it out.

THE WAR LOAN.

IS YOUR PATRIOTISM WORTH £10?

"Is your patriotism worth £10?" That is the question the Federal Treasurer is asking the citizens of Australia in the appeal for subscriptions to the Commonwealth war loan, the proceeds of which will be used exclusively for financing the war.

"Is all the speech-making and the button-selling and the cheering mere wind in a drum?" he asks. "Of course there are people who have put as much money as they can get from the bank into the war loan, but there are thousands of citizens who think—though they dare not say so—'it's the other fellow's job.' They are so fearful that they let the other fellow run away with a gilt-edged investment, bearing interest at 4½ per cent. How many landlords would like 4½ per cent. clear of charges? It is safe to say that nearly every property holder would be glad of even 4 per cent. clear of costs of maintenance. And the purchaser of a war bond gets ½ per cent. more, and need not worry over the chances of tenants leaving with the rent in arrears.

"Remember that every £5 note invested in the war loan pays for the cost of a rifle borne on the shoulder of an Anzac. Here in this great country, living as comfortably as if these were the 'piping times of peace,' are 1,268,453 men and 745,600 women, whose aggregate net incomes in the year ended June, 1915, amounted to £205,523,108. The average net income in that year in New South Wales was £110 13s 2d, Victoria £94 19s 3d, Queensland £103 5s 10d, South Australia £85 11s 5d, Western Australia £120 12s 11d, Tasmania £86 11s 5d, Northern Territory £150 8s 1d, Federal Territory £114 2s 9d; average for Commonwealth, males £138 7s 10d, females £40 4s 2d; or an average for both of £102 0s 11d.

"As many of the wage-earners are young people, the average net income of adults may be said to be well over £2. Many young women are earning from £2 2s to £3 10s a week, and boys of 16½ years can earn 30s a week in some occupations. In the year under notice, 311,609 men and 23,638 women earned £156 and upwards. The figures are those of the Commonwealth Statistician. There are at least 2,000,000 people who can each provide two rifles costing £5 each to the Anzacs, and many of that great number can afford to equip and maintain a soldier throughout the year. Save your silver, and it will turn into gold."

LABOUR EXCHANGES.

NEW COUNTRY BRANCHES.

The Minister for Labour and Industry (Mr. Beeby) stated yesterday that efforts are now being made to extend the functions of the State Labour Exchange. Branches are to be opened at Wagga and at either Tamworth or Armidale. Offices, he said, have been opened with beneficial results at Broken Hill, Newcastle, Lismore, Lithgow, and Woonona.

"Some antagonism has been shown by officers of the Australian Workers' Union to the despatch of men to employment in certain country centres," said Mr. Beeby, "but the policy adopted by the department is to refrain from sending labour to any centre where there are local unemployed. The department sends persons to employment only when it has requests for labour from responsible employers, and it will carefully inquire into any cases in which the confidence of the exchange seems to have been abused. The central idea of the exchange is to ascertain where and in what numbers men are unemployed, and arrange for their transit to places where labour is required. There is very little surplus labour in rural districts at present, but there is no doubt of its existence in the city. With some understanding of the difficulties of the position and a little co-operation from unions the exchange would be of great value in placing men in suitable employment.

"The central exchange, which is situated at 72 Elizabeth-street, Sydney, is visited daily by large numbers of men seeking its assistance."

SOLDIER LEGISLATORS.

IN THE TRENCHES.

Mr. Ashford (Minister for Lands) stated yesterday that he had received a letter from Lieutenant Carmichael, M.L.A., giving encouraging news of himself and Lieutenant Dunn, M.L.A. Both these soldiers are in the trenches in France. "It is worth noting," said Mr. Ashford, "that both had been offered promotion to a captaincy, with responsible administrative positions in England, but had declined promotion, preferring to be sent into the trenches in France to take their place in the firing line, for which purpose they had enlisted.

"I would like this fact to be made known, because it has been suggested in Parliament and elsewhere that neither of these members was at the front or intended to go there."

WHARF-LABOURERS' DISPUTES.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Monday.

Trouble arose to-day on two steamers at Wellington, one of which was unloading general cargo. The men declined to put cargo into nets instead of slings, saying that the former method was dangerous. The employers insisted on their methods being followed. The men declined, and were told their services were no longer required. The men left, and the hatches were put on the holds. On a vessel which was loading wool and dairy produce the men would not put the usual number of boxes of butter into the nets, reducing the number by about a third. As the men persisted in this attitude the gang was put off.

REFERENDUM.

DISAPPOINTMENT IN FRANCE.

DUTY NEGLECTED.

A Sydney gentleman has received the following letter from an officer commanding an Australian column in France:—

"The result of the Australian referendum has come as a great shock to us out here, and, of course, there is a great deal of jubilation by the Germans, Austrians, Turks, and Bulgarians. The Germans are quite under the impression that Australia has decided not to support the mother country any more, and say that now that Australia has set the example in this direction, Canada will follow suit, soon leaving the mother country with no course to adopt but to make peace at any price, even to giving up colonial possessions to Germany and her allies, according to prisoners. Indeed, it seems to have breathed entirely new life into the military machinery of the enemy who, a little while ago, were so disheartened that hundreds were giving themselves up whenever opportunity offered.

"The English, French, and Belgian troops on this front are very reticent, and therefore one has great difficulty to glean from their silence what is their opinion on the question. A few days ago, whilst speaking to me on the result of the referendum, a French officer went as far as to say that it was a big blow to the French people. 'But,' said he, 'the Australians who have been fighting on this front have shown themselves to be full of courage, and are brave to a degree; we must not forget, however, that all men of a nation are not equally brave, and, yours being a small community, perhaps all the brave men have come away.' He added that the French nation would be always grateful for what Australia had done, even if her forces were to dwindle away completely, but that he was grieved about the fact that, should we not be able to beat Germany, one of her terms of peace would surely be the giving up, by Great Britain and France, of their colonial possessions. Australians who fight on this front have the satisfaction that they are saving Australia from the Huns, whose military terrorism has no regard for either men, women, or children.

"I and hundreds and thousands of others on this front have realised that the referendum was a vote which meant we were either in favour of Great Britain (and so prepared to fight for the Empire and freedom), or that we were in favour of the Germans, and were thus not willing to give our assistance to the mother country. I hope that Australian reinforcements will come forward in sufficient numbers, and that soon we will have achieved a victorious peace."

RAILWAYS AND TRAMWAYS.

DECREASE IN REVENUE.

EFFECT OF COAL STRIKE.

A report made by the Chief Commissioner for Railways and Tramways for the second quarter of the current financial year—October to December, 1916—shows that whilst there has been a decrease of £30,302 in the working expenses of the railways, compared with the same quarter of the last financial year, there has been a much bigger falling off—£117,058—in the earnings. The Tramway Department's figures, on the other hand, show a still worse position. The earnings decreased by £7850, while the working expenses increased by £34,501.

There was an increase of 343,830 passengers carried on the railways over the corresponding quarter last year, which resulted in an increased revenue of £12,333. The decrease of revenue on the railways was therefore all in the carriage of merchandise, which showed a decrease of £129,391. For this big deficit the coal strike is alleged to be almost entirely to blame. The total mileage run by the trains during the three months was 922,403 miles less than in the same quarter of 1915.

POSED AS RETURNED SOLDIER.

NEWCASTLE CONVICTION.

NEWCASTLE, Monday.

Thomas Frederick Moult, 36, a hairdresser, was, at the police court, before Mr. Adrian, S.M., to-day sentenced to six months' imprisonment with hard labour on a charge "that he did, at Newcastle, on Saturday last, unlawfully impose by means of a false representation that he was a soldier just returned from the war, with the object of obtaining benefit thereby."

Corporal Morgan, of the military police, gave evidence, and said that defendant was pointed out to him as being a man who had disturbed a recruiting meeting at Maitland. Defendant had said that he was a returned wounded soldier, and would not advise anyone to go to the war. Witness saw Moult begging at hotels and other places in Newcastle. Accused was wearing a returned soldier's badge, but when questioned by witness he admitted that he had never been to the war.

The magistrate, in passing sentence, told the defendant that he did not know of anything more contemptible than for a man of military age to impose upon the public in that way.

GRAIN ELEVATORS.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE PROTEST.

A protest against the expenditure of the money necessary to provide grain elevators for the bulk-handling of wheat, during the present straitened financial circumstances of the State, has been made to the Minister for Agriculture by the Chamber of Commerce. The following extracts are from a letter forwarded to the Minister last week by that body:—

"It is felt that the time is not opportune for the expenditure of the large sum of money necessarily associated with this undertaking, and it is hoped that in the exercise of your wisdom and discretion you will not commit the State to this expenditure under the circumstances that exist.

"It is further felt that even in the event of your going forward with this project the conditions upon which tenders have been called do not give scope for proper investigation and calculations to be made before the date on which the tenders have to be received.

"Holding these views, we most respectfully suggest to you that, under any circumstances, an extension of time should be given to allow of the fullest freedom and competition in tendering, and this period, it is considered, should be at least six months."

THE "SYDNEY MAIL."

This week's issue of the "Mail" is more than usually varied. A fine series of pictures, including a double page, shows some of the interesting work performed by recruits "On the Battle-front at Liverpool." It is not generally known that there are huge dugouts 30ft deep, machine-gun keeps constructed on lines similar to those on the Somme, extensive trench works and entanglements of the most modern kind, and many other warlike works at Liverpool. The pictures should help to convince the stay-at-homes that military work is not all monotonous drill and route marching. A striking picture from France shows a cheery draft of Australians who have recently come from England on the way to the front-line trenches. Other trench photographs convey some idea of the tremendous difficulties that have to be overcome in conducting a winter offensive. There is a pathetic picture from the ill-fated Port Nicholson—the burial of a soldier at sea, with all the troops paraded, as a last tribute of respect. A number of photographs by Frank Hurley vividly illustrate incidents connected with the Shackleton Antarctic Expedition.

ILLEGAL SALE OF GOLD.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Monday.

At Dunedin Hans Olsen was sentenced to six months' imprisonment for the illegal sale of gold to one Pollett, who was fined £100. Olsen was dredgemaster for the Manuherika Company, and Pollett is a jeweller.

NEW ZEALAND AND THE WAR.

GOVERNMENT MEASURES.

ASSISTANCE FROM LABOUR.

WELLINGTON, Jan. 24.

It is quite possible that the outside world does not fully realise the fact that New Zealand is running its military service—in other words, its conscription service—on the most friendly lines. Here and there men who are constitutionally unfitted for Empire making or holding come along, even in a little country like this. As a rule they get twelve months in gaol. Their number is rapidly lessening, and sympathy with them has been cut down to a vanishing point. That aspect of the subject can be dismissed in the above few sentences. No one above the rank of a Sinn Feiner has anything to say by way of deprecating the Government's methods.

Meanwhile the Government is doing good things. For instance, and as a beginning, it got into grips with the sellers of meat at Auckland. The sellers said they were going to raise the retail price. The Government said: "We will sell you meat out of the Government stores at the same price as is paid by the Imperial Government, and if you do not like the offer the Government will open shops of its own." The butchers did not accept the offer, and the Government opened shops of its own, and is now selling meat at Auckland at considerably less price than is demanded by the butchers from the consumers. The published reports of the activities of the Government in this direction have aroused the interest of the public in other towns, and it is quite on the cards that, before many months are over, the Government will have become a fully-equipped meat retailer. History repeats itself. In the early 'Nineties of the last century the late Richard John Seddon proposed to open in London Government shops for the retail sale of New Zealand mutton and beef, because our produce was being exploited by unscrupulous buyers and sold as Welsh or something else. He was then called the State butcher and many other names. Now, in war time, his Ministerial successor has taken a leaf out of his book.

Then there was the subject of the Military Appeal Boards. They began with four, and have now been increased to ten, the extra six being required to get rid of a large amount of work left undone owing to undue pressure, and thereby facilitate the sending away of the various reinforcements. Four of the six new boards are to be what is known as permanent; the other two are merely temporary. The significant feature about the personnel of these new boards is that Labour, in its most pronounced capacity, has been given representation, as under:—Auckland, Arthur Rosser, Labour secretary; Wellington, Frederick Curtice, president of the Wellington Waterside Workers' Union; Canterbury, Frederick T. Eldridge, foreman carpenter in the employ of the Christchurch City Council; Otago Board, Robert Breen, Labour secretary, Dunedin; Wellington Board, M. J. Mack, general secretary of the Amalgamated Society of Railway Servants. The fact that these Labour representatives have accepted such responsible positions shows that Labour is fully alive to its responsibilities, and the experience is that when New Zealand Labour is put in a responsible position it pleases everybody but the most extreme.

SEAMEN'S WAGES.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

A conference between representatives of the Federated Seamen's Union and the various shipowners sat in Melbourne on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday to consider claims made by the union for increased wages and improved conditions. The following rates of pay per calendar month were agreed to by the union representatives and the Commonwealth Steamship Owners' Association, the Melbourne Steamship Company, and James Paterson:—Boatswain, £12; A.B. employed as lamp-trimmer, £12; A.B., £11; ordinary seamen, 18 years and over, £7 10s; ordinary seamen, under 18 years, £6 5s; donkeyman, £14; fireman greaser (on vessels carrying one engineer only), £13 10s; greaser, £13; trimmer, £11. These rates represent an increase of 35s per month in every class, with the exception of ordinary seamen 18 years and over, who will receive an increase of 5s per month, and ordinary seamen under 18 years whose pay has not been altered. Overtime has been fixed at 2s per hour, which is an increase of 4d per hour. Other conditions are to remain as at present. The agreement will come into operation on February 1, and will continue until 12 months after final declaration of peace by Great Britain.

AUSTRALIANS HONOURED.

SERGEANT J. A. PARK.

News has been received by his relations in Sydney that Sergt. John Alexander Park, D.C.M., has been awarded the third bar to his decoration for gallantry on the Western Front. Sergt. Park has a fine record of service. An old army man, he saw service in Africa, the Afghan War, and the Boxer rising, and afterwards settled in Australia, enlisting with the Engineers at the outbreak of the war. He was at Rabaul, and Gallipoli, where he won his D.C.M., and was wounded. The extra bars he has won in France. He is one of five brothers, two of whom have fallen, fighting in France, while another is also with the colours. The fifth, and youngest brother, lives in Sydney, and has twice been rejected by the military authorities. Sergt. Park is a married man with three children.

SERGEANT J. A. MOORE.

Information has been received that Sergt. J. A. Moore, of Camperdown, has been awarded the Military Medal for conspicuous bravery at Gallipoli. He also served with the Mounted Rifles in the Boer War, and received a medal with five bars.

MODIFIED RAILWAY RATES.

ON FLOUR AND MILL OFFAL.

A statement issued from the Railway Department yesterday modifies to some extent the freight rates chargeable on grain, flour, and mill offal.

The regulations provide that when conveyed on the "up" journey and charged at special "up" journey rates, grain and flour must be loaded to within 5 per cent. of the carrying capacity of the trucks used, and that bran, pollard, and mill offal must be consigned in minimum lots of not less than eight tons in each four-wheel truck.

From the 5th prox. the following minimum weights per truck will be observed:—

Flour: 10-ton trucks, 9½ tons; 15-ton trucks (16 feet in length), 11 tons; 15-ton trucks (18 feet in length), full carrying capacity, less 5 per cent., i.e., 14¼ tons.

To assist consignors in obtaining the minimum weights specified, the Commissioners have agreed to deliver flour to two or more consignees at the same destination station, provided the freight on the full truck load is prepaid, and the quantity to be thus delivered to any one consignee is not less than four tons.

Mixed consignments of flour, meal, bran, pollard, and wheat, or consignments of mill offal only, in one truck, from one consignor to one consignee, conveyed on the "up" journey, will be accepted subject to certain conditions.

ETHICS OF POLITICS.

BISHOP'S CONDEMNATION.

BATHURST, Monday.

Speaking in All Saints' Cathedral last night, Bishop Long referred to what he called the predominating note in modern political life. "It seems to us," he remarked, "that the political world is becoming more and more ungenerous, as if the one thing, the supreme art, in political life is to deny every virtue and ascribe every crime to your opponent, never to give him credit for high motives or due performance. 'Be bitter, for he who shrieks loudest is the most bitter, and can abuse with the most vitriol.' This seems to be the maxim of the modern political world, and it is only he who is most bitter who is to be your leader."

LITHGOW IRONWORKS DISPUTE.

LITHGOW, Monday.

The trouble at the ironworks, following on the strike at the blast furnaces, has been settled. At a general meeting this afternoon the union decided to accept the terms offered by Hoskins, Ltd., for steel furnaces. The men are willing to restart in the morning. Although the management has not yet replied to the men, it is expected that a resumption will take place to-morrow.

NATION'S DESTINY.

"THE AUSTRALIAN SPIRIT."

ELOQUENT SPEECH BY MR. HUGHES.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

Important speeches were delivered to-day by Federal and State politicians at the annual luncheon of the Australian Natives' Association at the Exhibition.

The Prime Minister (Mr. Hughes) was the main attraction, and when he rose to respond to the toast of "The Federal Parliament" he was received with loud and prolonged applause, together with much waving of handkerchiefs. He said that, while the whole commerce of the world was dislocated, and millions of men had been withdrawn from production, yet in Australia they had been able to go on—he was going to say almost unmindful of the mighty conflict in which their own destinies were to be determined. This showed that they were a most favoured nation, and it was due to the mighty and overpowering [illegible] and the power of the allied armies. They were behind a living wall of men, in which they could see their own Australian soldiers, not the least effective. But for that living wall of men such an exhibition as they were holding that day would be an impossibility.

When this war broke out, what they called Australian industry rested upon a foundation in too many cases of German money and German domination. They had ejected all that. At any rate they had struck a blow at that upas tree so vigorous that nothing but their own folly, their own stupidity, would enable that tree ever again to bear fruit in this land. When war broke out this country, which was the richest in the world, with unbounded mineral resources, was in the clutches, in the predatory grasp of the German octopus. They had destroyed that. (Loud applause.) This war had imposed on industry many new conditions. Some of these would remain. The world would not go back entirely to those conditions which existed before the war. It had been forced willy nilly into new channels.

Greater possibilities now confronted the whole world than ever before. The people of Britain were awake. The people of Australia, he hoped, were not entirely sunk in slumber. The provision of better economic conditions for the people of Britain was going to be one of the inevitable results of this war. (Applause.) For them this war meant, or it could be made to mean, a greater, broader destiny than that which confronted them before the war. They had been compelled to deal during this war with great industries, such as wheat-growing, wool, [illegible], shipping, and many others, by methods which at least were open to criticism in times of peace.

He would not venture into the thorny path of party politics to say whether these methods were better methods for times of peace than for times of war. All he would say was that the world had adopted them, and the war compelled them to resort to them. What was wanted and what this war had forced upon the British nation was the necessity for the organisation of their resources.

They had come to see that it was necessary to organise their resources. He hoped this lesson would be taken to heart by every Australian. What was wanted at this time above all others was a broad national view. (Applause)—the future of Australia was now at stake. They had come to the parting of the ways. They must imbibe the spirit of the nation. They had every reason to be proud of the resources of their country. Never in the history of the world had there been such a stage for the development of a free people. Our path stretched out clear and broad before us. Nature and circumstances had done everything for us.

They had set out on their road of nationhood behind the impregnable field of British greatness, which never for a day had been moved from before them until now, when they were putting on in deadly earnest the toga of manhood. Now they had come to play their part in the history of the nation.

To this association, which existed for the purpose of invoking and kindling the spirit of Australian nationality, he appealed. He declared it to be the duty of every man to cultivate this love of Australia; this [illegible] of country without which no nation ever became great or remained great; this love of Australia in which they had gone forth to play their part in this titanic conflict, a part which had been played not only with credit, but with immortal glory.

There had gone out from amongst them men at whose feet they sat and whose names would be inscribed on a tablet which future generations should gaze at with veneration, saying: "These are the men who led you, Australia, who blazed the track which you must follow, who showed us the way by which a nation alone can live by being ready to die." That was the lamp which the Australian Natives' Association had diligently kept alight during all these years, and which was now entrusted to it—the flame of Australian nationality. It was a glorious ideal which they had made their own. Let them resolve that they would do all things necessary for the safety and development of this great country, to hasten the coming of her greatness in this war, when victory and defeat trembled in the balance. Let them do their duty as Australians and shut out all thoughts of class, creed, and party. (Loud applause.)

Let them remember that the way of honour and justice should be followed as a matter of duty, regardless of immediate success. Let them not forget that the great issue now being decided on the blood-stained battlefields of France and Flanders would determine the future of Australia, economically, morally, and nationally. They could no more stand alone than man could live independently of his fellow. They were part and parcel of this great Imperial fabric. On them rested an obligation which only complete action could discharge.

Therefore, what they must all do was to put their heart and soul and strength into it, to invoke the spirit of Australia, not a spirit of sectional class, but a spirit of the nation as a whole. (Loud applause.) Great difficulties confronted and tremendous responsibilities rested upon the people of Australia, but he had never wavered in his faith that the Australian people would prove themselves worthy. Uplifted by this faith, they might look with clear resolve, and with smiling eyes, into the future. There was a crying need for the organisation of Australia for more men to fight the battles of Australia.

There was crying need for the pouring out of unstinted effort on behalf of Australia. The appeal had gone forth from the lips of the Director-General of Recruiting (Mr. Donald Mackinnon) for more men. He hoped that the appeal would not fall on deaf ears. (Applause.) The British loan now being floated would, he believed, prove to be the greatest success in all history, even by comparison with those tremendous outpourings of wealth already made. Should Australia fall short of her part? Let them either by personal service or by their money do their duty in this great struggle. (Applause.) Let them put aside everything of party, class, and creed. (Applause.) Let them unfurl the banner of Australian nationality, prove themselves worthy of the race from which they sprung—worthy of the noble heritage which has come down to them. (Loud and prolonged applause.)

SPEECH BY MR. COOK.

Mr. Joseph Cook said he subscribed entirely to the spirit of Mr. Hughes's speech, and echoed the hope that they should be able during the course of the war—and indeed during the future, far beyond the time when the war shall cease—to modify the party spirit in their politics, and devote themselves unitedly to the great post-war problems, which would lay such a large contribution upon their intelligence and national spirit. (Loud applause.) He liked the idea of developing the Australian spirit. It was true that every nation had its own peculiar contribution to make to the sum of things that made up the civilisation of the world. Australia herself had a peculiar contribution to make, one that no other nation under heaven could make.

The A.N.A. had built better than its members knew in holding hard to Australian traditions. His advice to the association was to cherish those ideals as sacred things. Lord Kitchener said that the Australian spirit should be developed, not necessarily as a British army, but as the Australian army. How well that had been done, largely under the control of Senator Pearce. (Applause.) Let Anzac and Pozieres be the answer. (Loud applause.) If that principle was good for their army why not for their trade? They had too much to lose to talk of peace just now. Australia must be in the war to the finish, in all its strength of men and material resources. Let them forget the referendum, and address themselves to the call of the Director of Recruiting, and assist him to the fullest in their power to make this great national movement in which he was engaged a success, and the best contribution that they could make to the cause of civilisation. In the future let them give themselves devotedly to that, never forgetting that the issue was between Prussianism and Australian freedom, and hope that God would defend the right. (Loud and prolonged applause.)

ENEMY CHECKED

RUSSIANS DOING WELL

WESTERN FRONT

FRENCH SUCCESSES

SUBMARINES

THE NAVY'S ACTIVITY

LAURENTIC SUNK

Rough weather on the Roumanian front is hindering operations. All the Austro-German efforts during the past fortnight have been checked.

The activity on the Western front continues. The French carried out a successful coup-de-main near Les Eparges, securing much booty.

Swiss troops are lining the frontier between Schaffhausen and Basle, which was hitherto not garrisoned.

The Admiralty announces that the auxiliary cruiser Laurentic (a White Star liner of 14,892 tons) was submarined or mined on Thursday. Twelve officers and 109 of the crew were saved.

There is said to be intense activity on the part of the Admiralty, supporting the belief that a trial of strength between Britain and Germany is impending.

An announcement, regarded as being of the utmost importance, is that Britain has enlarged the North Sea area that is dangerous for shipping.

WESTERN FRONT.

SUCCESSFUL RAIDS.

LIVELY ARTILLERY DUELS.

LONDON, Jan. 28.

The Paris "Matin" considers it is improbable that Germany will carry out a spring offensive. Rather she is preparing for a vigorous defensive on all fronts in order to derive full benefit from the intense efforts in the manufacture of shells without risking the lives of soldiers.

A French communique on Sunday afternoon stated.—We were completely successful in a coup-de-main between Les Eparges and Tranchee de Calonne. We found numerous bodies in the enemy trenches, and brought back much booty. An enemy aeroplane was brought down.

A French official message, issued at midnight on Sunday, stated.—The usual general cannonade has prevailed. It has been particularly lively at Verdun and in Alsace.

Field-Marshal Sir Douglas Haig, in his report on Sunday night, stated: At daybreak we again entered the enemy's trenches north-east of Neuville St. Vaast, and inflicted casualties. We also took prisoners. We carried out a successful raid north-east of Festubert and drove off an enemy attempt east of Fauquissart.

ENEMY ADMISSION.

(Admiralty—per Wireless Press.)

A German official message states:—The British penetrated a small section southeast of Le Transloy.

ALSACE.

THE GERMAN CONCENTRATION.

LONDON, Jan. 28.

Lord Sydenham, in an article in the "Sunday Times," says the Germans are concentrating in Alsace, possibly contemplating an attempt of the Verdun type against the defences southward of Belfort, but a more likely explanation is that the concentration is dictated by fear of the Allies assuming the offensive.

BRITISH FOOD SUPPLY.

LONDON, Jan. 29.

Mr. W. C. Anderson, M.P. (Labour), speaking in Leicester at a meeting to protest against the high prices of food, said he was not giving away a secret by saying that the population of the country would very shortly be put on a ration system.

TREATMENT OF BELGIANS.

GERMANY'S METHODS.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.

The Belgian Minister has stated that Germany has seized tools, machines, and raw materials worth many millions of pounds, and thus created idleness, which now affects 120,000 persons, and marks a return to absolute slavery.

PEACE OFFERS.

ONLY ACCEPTABLE KIND.

RUSSIAN PREMIER'S VIEW.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.

The Petrograd correspondent of the "New York World" interviewed Prince Nicholas Galitzin, the Russian Premier, who said that the Entente would not agree with President Wilson's phrase, "Peace without victory." The only peace, based on victory for the Allies, must be in accord with the principles of humanity. England, France, and Russia had made superhuman sacrifices to defend themselves and save small nations which had been traitorously attacked. Prince Galitzin added emphatically: "Never will the Allies consent to anything less than a victorious peace."

DANGEROUS ILLUSIONS.

ZURICH, Jan. 28.

Prince Alexander of Hohenlohe, who has been residing in Switzerland since the war, in an article published in the "Nouvelle Gazette," says:—The Germans are cherishing dangerous illusions concerning the effects produced in neutral countries by their peace offers. Neutrals refuse to accept the German theory that the Entente is responsible for the continuation of the war, and that they approach Germany proposing peace in an unacceptable form, withholding the terms.

CONFERENCE OF NEUTRALS.

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 28.

Sweden has invited Holland to form a conference of neutrals to discuss their interests during the war, and their attitude during peace negotiations.

BIG LINER SUNK.

LOSS OF THE LAURENTIC.

LONDON, Jan. 28.

The White Star liner Laurentic, 14,892 tons, has been sunk off the Irish coast.

The vessel was employed in the Government service.

The Admiralty announces:—The auxiliary cruiser Laurentic was submarined or mined on the 25th inst.

Twelve officers and 190 of the crew were saved.

Captain Norton, who was in charge of the Laurentic, was among the saved. He was the commander of the cruiser Hogue when she was torpedoed early in the war.

The Laurentic had a complement of 300.

[The Laurentic was a steel triple screw steamer of 14,892 tons register, and was built in 1908 by Messrs. Harland and Wolff, Belfast, for the Oceanic Steam Navigation Company, Ltd. (White Star Line). She was 550 feet long, 67 feet broad, and 41 feet deep, and was fitted with turbine engines. Her equipment included electric light, wireless telegraphy, submarine signalling apparatus, and refrigerating machinery. Previous to the war this fine vessel was engaged in the Liverpool-Canadian service. She was the largest steamer engaged on the run, and probably the most popular.]

NORTH SEA SHIPPING

THE DANGEROUS AREA.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.

The United States Embassy in London cables that Britain has enlarged the North Sea area which is dangerous for shipping.

American officials say that this is designed to prevent egress from German ports, Heligoland, or the Kiel Canal, and banns shipping from most of the area of the Dogger Bank, except a narrow coastal strip.

The announcement is regarded as most important.

SWISS ANXIETY.

POSSIBILITY OF INVASION.

WITHDRAWAL FROM BANKS.

LONDON, Jan. 28.

The Central News Agency's correspondent in Zurich states that the Rothschilds, of Paris, have withdrawn £8,000,000 from the Swiss banks in view of the possibility of German invasion.

The Swiss Government's assurance that it intends to defend its territory has stopped a general withdrawal of French capital. The banks have agreed to transfer their securities to Geneva.

NATIONAL SERVICE.

WOMEN AND THE WAR.

ANXIOUS TO DO THEIR PART.

LONDON, Jan. 29.

The decision of Colonel Sir Neville Chamberlain (Director of National Service) not to make a simultaneous appeal to men and women has chagrined many women's societies. They propose that a committee of prominent women who have proved their usefulness in war should be appointed to enrol and draft women into duties suitable for their training and ability without interference by men.

Lady Frances Balfour urges that it is impossible to separate civilians into sexes in regard to national service. Sir Neville Chamberlain's introduction of sex, she says, makes an artificial difference which is bound to render the scheme inefficient. The whole people should be included immediately on the same basis.

Miss Mary Macarthur (secretary of the National Federation of Women Workers) claims that women should have a minimum living wage and 17s weekly extra when away from home, as Sir Neville Chamberlain promises men. This would mean a revolution in women's wages.

CASE OF FARM HANDS.

In the course of a speech at Liverpool Lord Derby (Secretary for War) explained that, although the tribunals up to last autumn had declined to exempt 60,000 farm hands, he, with Mr. Lloyd George's permission, when the latter was Secretary for War, had lent them to agriculture until the beginning of 1917. Therefore, it was a simple case of lending, as they clearly belonged to the army. The borrower was often staggered when asked to repay a debt, but this was a question of repaying only one-half of the debt.

This explanation throws light upon the statement by the Earl of Derby and Mr. Prothero (President of the Board of Agriculture) that the urgent military situation required the taking of men under 25 years of age from even an industry so essential as agriculture.

ROUMANIA.

RUSSIAN PRESSURE.

ENEMY EFFORTS CHECKED.

PETROGRAD, Jan. 29.

The roughest weather on the Roumanian front hinders operations.

All the Austro-German efforts have been checked during the past fortnight with great loss. The Germans have withdrawn all but four or five divisions, replacing the Germans by Turks and Austrians.

The Roumanians not required to hold the line are working hard to reorganise their forces, so that the Allies in the 1917 campaign will be able to reckon upon a seasoned army, well-equipped with the most modern guns, and composed of hardy peasants determined to win back their homes or die.

A Russian official message states:—We attacked on both sides of the Kimpolung-Yakoben Road. After a stubborn fight we broke through fortified positions on a front of three versts.

A German official message states:—Russian pressure compelled us to move nearer to the east bank of the Goldenny Bystritza.

An Austrian official message says:—West of Olipuťnow a superior enemy force penetrated our first line, and we withdrew to the next height in the rear.

CENTRAL POWERS.

FOOD CRISIS THREATENED.

DESPERATE CONDITIONS.

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 29.

An official statement issued by the Imperial German Food Office declares:—Despite the favourable corn crop, Germany's position is worse than in 1916, owing to the failure of the potato crop. A system of economy must be carried out immediately if it be possible for the nation to hold out until next harvest. Imports from neutral countries are also decreasing. The quantity of foodstuffs is very scarce, and strict organisation is necessary. This will be difficult owing to the opposition and resistance of large sections of the population to the ordinances and restrictions which have been issued.

The "Morning Post's" Budapest correspondent says:—The latest feature of the food crisis is the growing desperation of women who are unable to provide their children with the bare necessaries of life. Many are absolutely without coal, petroleum, wood, or milk. Prices in many cases have risen 300 to 1000 per cent. The whole stock of rice in the country is 50 waggon-loads. Beef is costing 10s a kilogramme, fat 7s 9d, and butter 10s 8d. New vegetables cannot be expected before July. Unless a miracle happens, famine in its worst form is inevitable.

The fixing of maximum prices has resulted in the holding up of stocks thus far which has caused greater scarcity. Some relief has been afforded by pig slaughtering. The richer Budapest families bought up thousands of small pigs in the spring, and had them fed in the country. They are now receiving considerable supplies of pork and fat. This wholesale slaughter is going on because the Government prohibits the use of maize for fodder.

It is possible to restrict feeding among a few hundred thousand people in a besieged city, but 120,000,000 are not easily managed. Hundreds of thousands of Socialists and other disaffected elements must be reckoned with, while millions of women, bereaved and poverty-stricken, are possessed of the single thought of how to feed their children. It is impossible to reason with them on political or patriotic grounds. The next few months will reveal the strength of millions of uninstructed and desperate women, who have given sons and husbands to the war, and now find they can endure their misery no longer.

DEVELOPING RESOURCES

PAYING FOR THE WAR.

LONDON, Jan. 29.

The Empire Resources Development Committee has issued a statement advocating the conservation of the natural resources which are under the ownership or control of the Imperial, dominion, or Indian Governments.

The development of this great and varied wealth for State purposes under State auspices would, the statement says, lift from the peoples of the Empire the burdens due to the war. The national debt after the war will probably amount to £4,000,000,000, and the Government will need an income of £500,000,000. The committee's scheme would enable the Empire to pay the interest and also to secure unearned increment out of which the whole of the national debt could ultimately be paid. The State should assist in providing such public facilities as electric power, and thus cheapen the cost.

Sir Leander Starr Jameson, Mr. Rudyard Kipling, Viscount Grey, Lord Selborne, Lord Desborough, and others sign the statement.

AUSTRO-HUNGARY.

DESIRE FOR PEACE.

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 28.

Dmitri Jantcheeuetsky, a Russian publicist, who has been released after thirty months' imprisonment in Austria, states that there is a universal desire for peace on almost any terms in Austro-Hungary, particularly among the Slavs and Magyars. There is no feeling of bitterness against the Entente. The Emperor, Empress, and their Court are endeavouring to secure independence from Germany.

The food supply, he says, is relatively good in the north, but actual hunger prevails in the south of Hungary and the southern Slav States. It is stated that desertions, owing to the underfeeding of the troops, have increased threefold during the past six months.

ENSURING PEACE.

SIR JOSEPH WARD'S VIEW.

LONDON, Jan. 28.

Sir Joseph Ward, speaking at a Brotherhood meeting in Browning Hall, said that the only way the peace of the world could be perpetuated after the war was by the right thinking people of the great Powers banding together and saying to any Power attempting to enter a destructive course that they would combine to fight them to the death.

SEA STRUGGLE.

SILENT NAVY'S ACTIVITY.

SUBMARINE WARFARE.

VANCOUVER, Jan. 28.

The "New York Times" states that a well-informed London correspondent says that the intense, if unadvertised, activity on the part of the Admiralty supports the belief that there is impending a trial of strength between Great Britain and Germany undersea. Britain, if she fully armed her merchantmen, would have a strength of about 4000 ships against Germany's 1000 submarines. Britain was scientifically using the fullest ship-building facilities, and it would seem that the deadliest sea struggle in history may be staged in the near future.

Other newspapers also state that Germany intends to establish an actual submarine blockade of the British Isles. Advices from Germany are to the effect that there is a tremendous demand for a more vigorous submarine warfare.

Simultaneously an Embassy official states that Germany is prepared to make at least a general statement of the terms upon which she will end the war.

MESOPOTAMIA.

FURTHER BRITISH SUCCESS.

LONDON, Jan. 28.

An official message from Mesopotamia states: On the nights of the 25th and 26th inst. the enemy made renewed attempts but failed to recapture the ground lost on the previous day. We retook the trenches lost on the 25th, and found 400 corpses. Our casualties numbered 200.

RIGA BATTLE.

DIFFERENT STORIES.

LONDON, Jan. 28.

A Russian official message says: We repulsed two attacks west of Riga. The Germans fled in disorder.

A German official message states: Russian attacks broke down with heavy losses on both banks of the River Aa.

DEFEATING TORPEDOES.

SHOCK ABSORBER.

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 28.

M. Jansen, a Danish engineer, has invented a torpedo shock absorber.

It consists of an armoured belt placed around warships and merchantmen, containing thin plates combined with Belleville springs. There is an air vacuum between the plates, which, with the elasticity of the springs, causes an upward explosion, instead of a forward explosion into the sides of ships.

Some prominent financiers have formed a syndicate to experiment with the patent.

EXPLOSION IN PARIS.

MELINITE FACTORY.

PARIS, Jan. 28.

A violent explosion occurred in a melinite factory near Paris. The fire, which spread rapidly, reached depots containing explosives.

It is believed that the casualties were comparatively slight.

COLD IN THE BALTIC.

HARBOURS ICEBOUND.

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 28.

A number of Danish and Swedish harbours in the Cattegat and Baltic are icebound, and it is feared all traffic will be stopped if the intense cold continues.

STARVING GERMAN AVIATORS

SURRENDER TO FRENCH FARMER.

PARIS, Jan. 29.

Two German aviators landed in Normandy. A farmer, whose eldest son had been killed in the war, was working in a field at the time. Arming himself with a gun he went up threateningly to the Germans, who threw up their arms and willingly surrendered. They said they were dying of hunger, having lost their way after anti-aircraft guns had hit their motor.

IRISH CANADIANS.

VISIT TO ARMAGH.

LONDON, Jan. 28.

The Irish-Canadian Rifles, who are visiting Ireland, had a rousing reception in Armagh. Roman Catholic and Protestant members attended their respective cathedrals.

Cardinal Logue, in the course of his sermon, said he welcomed the regiment with enthusiasm and gratitude, because it had nobly responded to the cry for help by not only offering themselves to defend the Empire's honour, but by contributing to the boon of peace which must be just and stable, not merely a halting time for further competitive arming.

The Most Rev. J. B. Crozier (Protestant Archbishop of Armagh) said the tragedy and triumph of the terrible engagements in which the Canadians had played a noble part was Canada's message to the world. She was one with Britain when life and honour were at stake.

ALIENS IN ENGLAND.

PROPOSED DENATURALISATION.

LONDON, Jan. 29.

The "Daily Mail" says that Mr. Cave has decided to submit to the House of Commons a bill to denaturalise all undesirable aliens, who will thus revert to their real nationality.

MEXICO.

WITHDRAWAL OF AMERICAN TROOPS.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.

The War Department announces that the American troops are withdrawing from Mexico.

WAR NOTES.

EUROPE'S FOOD SUPPLY.

Evidences of a distinct shortage of food in Germany and Austria, as compared with previous years, continue to accumulate. One report purports to quote an Austro-German official statement, in which the people of the Central Powers are warned, in an alarming way, of the need for the strictest economy. One feature of these later messages is the frequent references to the sufferings of women and children, and to the distress of unfortunate mothers who cannot provide their families with enough to eat. Knowing the wily German as we do, we can be sure that such stories, recounted for the benefit of neutrals, who must be taught to hate England, will lose nothing in the telling. Yet a food shortage in Germany must be felt first by women and children; it is an inevitable result of a complete blockade of German ports. It is one of the worst features of war that the weaker and most defenceless sections of a population suffer most. It was so when the Germans mercilessly besieged Paris, just as it is possibly so to-day, when the Allies are besieging Germany. But in this connection, the point must again be emphasised, that while a shortage of certain foodstuffs is greatly embarrassing the enemy, his military power is not being weakened to any appreciable extent. If the ultimate advantage is to lie with the Allies, the deciding factor must be men and munitions, and not a reduced food allowance. Even were it otherwise, the struggle would not be one-sided. The fact cannot be hidden that the Allies' food problems are very serious indeed. To-day, cablegrams hint at the early establishment of a rationing system for Britain, and describe somewhat alarming conditions in Russia, where the distribution rather than the supply of food is unsatisfactory. When Germany put her people upon rations, there were those who cried that the end of the war was in sight. Does anyone now suggest that, because there is a possibility of the British people coming under a similar system, the coming British offensive will be crippled, or even weakened?

SWITZERLAND'S ALARM.

The notorious unreliability of the reports which come from neutral sources makes it most difficult to gauge accurately the position of Switzerland at present in relation to the war. For over a fortnight there have been persistent statements that it is Germany's intention to invade France through Switzerland, that the Germans are concentrating in the Rhine Valley for this purpose, and that the Swiss are preparing to resist. To-day there are two further reports which, if true, are full of significance. One says that great banking firms, fearing a German invasion, are withdrawing their money from Swiss institutions; the other announces that the Swiss troops are lining their frontier from Basle to Schaffhausen—that is, right across the Rhine Valley and facing Germany. It seems incredible that either of these important steps would be taken unless the Swiss authorities or the financial experts—who are intimately in touch with all national affairs—were satisfied that Germany's protestation that she would respect the neutrality of Switzerland was entirely valueless. As has been pointed out here before, a general survey of the position suggests that Germany would not find an attack on the Swiss worth while. Yet we cannot forget that German necessity knows no law. Germany will invade Switzerland if she thinks that she will thereby gain a military advantage; pledges and treaties would never deter her. There is one point about Switzerland's alarm that is worth noting; it seems to be established beyond doubt that, whatever the object may be, there is a heavy concentration of troops on the Rhine, in and around Alsace. What does Germany propose to do with these forces? Are they for an attack on Switzerland, on Belfort, on the French in Alsace, or are they intended for defensive purposes? There has been nothing to show, except, perhaps, the increasing frequency with which the French communiques speak of artillery duels in Alsace.

SWISS FRONTIER AND BELFORT.

When the Franco-German war of 1870-71 was nearing its end a French army of 150,000, under General Bourbaki, marched from a point near Orleans to relieve Belfort, the French fortress on the present Franco-German frontier, near the Swiss border. The German army near Belfort, although only 65,000, met and defeated the French; and the unfortunate, muddling Bourbaki, finding his army pressed up against the Swiss frontier, and his retreat cut off by other German forces which had appeared from the direction of Paris, shot himself. General Clinchant took charge, and led the French troops across the border into Switzerland, where they were disarmed and interned by the Swiss, who had been jealously guarding their frontier. This incident, perhaps, may suggest a reason for Switzerland's present anxiety. If the Germans, with a view to upsetting the Allies' plans for a concerted spring offensive, propose to attack at Belfort, as they did at Verdun, the matter is of vital interest to the Swiss. Belfort is so close to the Swiss line that one of the warring armies might be greatly tempted to secure an overwhelming advantage over the other by swinging round upon its flank through neutral territory. If that neutral ground were not guarded the temptation would be the greater; but if, behind the line, there was an uncompromising array of Swiss bayonets, pledged to maintain Swiss neutrality, any belligerent contemplating an international outrage might be induced to give the matter further consideration.

IN THE CARPATHIANS.

The Russians up in the Carpathian Mountains between Bukovina and Roumania launched an attack on a front of perhaps some five or six miles, and penetrated the enemy's lines on a front of two miles (three versts). Both Germans and Austrians were driven back. Germany and Austria, at any rate, have issued communiques reporting a reverse in this region. The Russians say that they attacked on both sides of Kimpolung, apparently towards the Goldene Bystritsa. To ninety-nine people in a hundred this conveys nothing. It may be said that there is a tangle of mountain roads and rivers around Kimpolung, and that some of them provide an indifferent route through the Carpathians towards Hungary, Roumania, and Bukovina. Kimpolung stands in a position from which it is possible to exercise a sort of control over most of the lines of communication. The Russians have held the mountain gateways south of Bukovina for some time, and every now and again they attack some enemy positions thereabouts. Sometimes it is at Dorna Watra, sometimes at Vale Putna, sometimes along the Goldene Bystritsa. The idea seems to be to harass the enemy as much as possible, and compel him to keep a respectful number of troops up on these bleak heights. Now and again in past winters the Russians have commenced fairly powerful offensive movements in the Carpathians; the frost and snow provide them with conditions in which they carry on a campaign happily enough. But on such occasions they have not accomplished much beyond inducing the enemy to concentrate large forces in opposition.

NEW ZEALAND WAR LOAN.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Monday.

The sale of war loan certificates continues steadily. Sales now amount to £1,214,380. An analysis shows that Wellington citizens have invested £2 4s 3d per head in certificates. Invercargill comes next with £2 2s 9d. Other investments are:—Christchurch, £2 1s 6d; Dunedin, £1 18s; Auckland, 19s 5d.

GORDON ELECTORATE.

Steps are being taken to strengthen the existing branches of the Liberal Association in the Gordon electorate, so as to be ready for the selection of a candidate for the by-election should Mr. Wade, M.L.A., accept the Agent-Generalship. The candidates mentioned in the event of a vacancy are, Messrs. T. R. Bavin, P. W. B[illegible]ne, Cl. Fitzsimons, E. J. Loxton, K.C., and Alderman F. C. Petrie, and Alderman R. T. Forsyth, Mayor of Willoughby.

LATE WAR NEWS.

PRUSSIAN MILITARISM.

THE LAST DITCH.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.

The New York "World" says that, although the German Emperor, who is wedded to rapacious war gods, is unable to perceive danger signals at home and abroad, Prussian militarism has reached the last ditch.

FAMINE CONDITIONS.

EFFECTS OF THE WAR.

LONDON, Jan. 29.

Advices from Petrograd state that reports from many parts of the country emphasise that the breakdown of the transport and the dislocation of the railway services have resulted in a practical famine. There are ample food supplies if they could be distributed. The army is being fed at the expense of the civilians. In large towns the rationing has been instituted of milk, meat, bread, vegetables, and sugar; poor people and servants of the rich waiting in queues. They used sometimes to wait for twelve hours for a small portion of meat, until the police forbade queues before dawn. People still wait for hours outside shops, though the temperature is often 10 degrees and 15 degrees below zero. Butter is selling at 7s per pound, and mutton at 3s. Living expenses, despite meatless days, and every effort to economise, are at least fourfold those in peace times. The need for a strong united Cabinet is greatly felt.

DEUTSCHLAND OVERDUE.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.

The submarine Deutschland is overdue, and the agents are anxious concerning her.

FEDERAL POLITICS.

NO DEVELOPMENTS.

THE MEETING OF PARLIAMENT

FURTHER LABOUR SUPPORT FOR MR. HUGHES.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

The Federal situation is no clearer than it was a week ago. The Prime Minister (Mr. Hughes) and the leader of the Liberal party (Mr. Cook) were both in Melbourne to-day, but both stated that there had been no developments in the situation which necessitated a conference between them to discuss the position.

It is now practically certain that Parliament will reassemble next week, and Mr. Cook stated to-day that his party would meet at the end of this week. The political situation would certainly be discussed, he said, but he was unable to state whether or not the party would so anticipate Mr. Tudor's refusal to join in a national Ministry as to discuss possible alternatives in a concrete form.

Neither Mr. Hughes nor Mr. Cook would discuss the situation generally, but Mr. Cook regretted that the public seemed inclined to lose sight of the fact that the present trouble was caused, not by any differences between himself and Mr. Hughes, but by the obstructive tactics of the Labour party in the Senate.

The Labour unions in Western Australia are breaking away one by one from the official machine. The Federal Minister for Works (Senator Lynch) to-day received a telegram to the effect that the Kalgoorlie Society of Engineers had agreed by 74 votes to 9 to leave the Australian Labour Federation in sympathy with him and the Hughes party.

GOVERNMENT ATTACKED.

BY HOSPITAL DIRECTORS.

During the course of his address at the annual meeting of the directors of the Royal North Shore Hospital last night, the chairman (Major Carey) spoke strongly of the present accommodation provided at the hospital for the treatment of infectious cases. The total number of such cases admitted during the year was 156. Repeated representations had been made to the State Government, and the urgent need for the provision of extra accommodation clearly emphasised. As a result of this continued agitation the Minister for Public Health had intimated that a sum of £1000 had been allotted for the purpose, and plans had been prepared by the Government for 25 additional beds. Nothing further had been done, however. He wished the present Minister to know that they felt very strongly on the matter, and if something was not immediately done they would be compelled to confine the reception of infectious persons strictly to eight beds.

Mr. Alec Thomson said it seemed a ridiculous thing that, whilst the late Government could fling money down the State well, it could not find a paltry £1000 which meant a case of life and death with many sufferers.

ANZAC-PARADE.

In the City Council last night it was decided, on the motion of Alderman Barlow, that, as the City Council has decided to name the roadway through Moore Park Anzac-parade, representations be made to the other municipal authorities interested, that the roadway extending from the city boundary to Botany Bay should be named Anzac-parade, so as to have one long continuous thoroughfare named after those whom the country desires to honour, thus linking the city of to-day with the landing-place of Captain Cook.

FAMILY OF FIGHTERS.

Mr. Ernest H. Powis, of Birmingham, England, who is now in Sydney, has had war experiences as a soldier at the front, and as the manager of a manufacturing firm which has been carrying on the large contracts for the Army and the Navy, including the supply of a new metal for aeroplanes, since the commencement of the war. Mr. Powis's company made the castings for the rudder stocks of H.M.A.S. Australia. Having already fought in the Boer War, he enlisted in September, 1914, and served at the front with the Royal Warwicks and the London Scottish. He was wounded in the battle of the Marne. His three brothers are in the army. George A. Powis, who enlisted in Sydney as a member of the 4th Australian Infantry, went through the Gallipoli campaign, and is now in the Norfolk War Hospital, having been wounded at Pozieres. The second brother is with the Royal Warwicks, and the third with the South Staffords.

CITY PARKS.

The City Council last night approved of the appointment of a landscape gardener, who will have charge of the city parks. His salary will be £250 a year. Incidentally it was stated that about £16,000 was spent last year on the parks and on street tree planting.

NEWCASTLE P.L.L.

NEWCASTLE, Monday.

A meeting of members of the newly-formed Political Labour League was held last week, and it was decided to form an electorate council. Seven leagues of the district were represented. Mr. D. J. Davies was elected president of the council, and Mr. A. L. Marshall secretary.

Mr. W. O'Brien, of the Sydney executive, presided, and said that "no conscription" was now a plank of the movement, and that those who joined the leagues subscribed to that. They would not endorse the nomination of a conscriptionist who was an aspirant to Parliament. The executive anticipated a Federal election at any moment.

Mr. T. Abel, of Wallsend, who has been a member of the P.L.L. for 36 years, and is now president of the Wallsend P.L.L., was elected a member of the council, despite the fact that he was a conscriptionist.

RECRUITING.

APPEAL TO YOUNG MEN.

PROPOSED RECRUITING TRAIN.

It is stated in a circular issued by the State Recruiting Committee that Australia is so many thousands of miles from the actual scene of hostilities that it is difficult for the imagination to realise what the exact position is. "Never during the course of the war has Australia been in such peril as it is to-day," it is added. "If Australia is to remain a country, then it must put forth every ounce of man, material, and money at its disposal. If the glory of the Anzacs on the Gallipoli Peninsula, if the just fame of the 'Kangaroos' on the Western front, is not to be merely a tarnished memory, then the young manhood of Australia must come forward, must cast all personal consideration to one side, and boldly advance to the rescue of those who for over two years have borne the brunt of battle, and who, though sorely tried and utterly weary, will hold on to what they have won until relieved or until the grim reaper supervenes.

"The young men of Australia owe a solemn duty—not only to themselves, but to their wives, parents, brothers, and sisters, not to mention their country or even posterity—and that is to join up, and join up quickly, to end this holocaust of butchery, which has not only enveloped Europe but threatens to envelop the whole world. There is surely no need to advance arguments. Religion and philosophy are alike enfiladed. Let every man of fighting ability ask his own conscience and act accordingly."

Mr. Donald Mackinnon, M.L.A., Director-General of Recruiting, will arrive in Sydney by the limited express from Melbourne this morning, and, after conferring with the members of the State committee, will attend a meeting at 12.30 at the establishment of Messrs. Saxton and Binns. An attempt will be made to secure recruits, and Mr. Mackinnon will make a special effort to secure subscriptions for the new Commonwealth War Loan.

IN OTHER STATES.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

To-day's recruiting figures were:—Volunteered, 39; accepted, 20.

WAR COUNCIL MEETING.

Mr. W. T. Willington (president of the Chamber of Manufactures), in the absence of the Premier, presided yesterday at a meeting of the State War Council. The other members present were Brigadier-General Ramaciotti, Captain Conway, Mr. A. A. Cocks, M.L.A., Mr. J. J. G. M'Girr, M.L.A., Mr. William Brooks, Mr. J. B. Holme (Under-Secretary for Labour and Industry), and Mr. F. C. Govers.

MEETING AT RANDWICK.

Miss Langer Owen was the first speaker at the recruiting rally at Randwick Town Hall last night. She said she had come to the meeting without any excuse for so doing, because everyone in Australia was in the war or should be in it. It was our duty now to think what we could do to get out of it. Everyone in the hall had a relation or friend at the front, and that meant that everyone present had a real interest in the war. Our generals at the front were repeatedly asking for men, and it was our duty to supply the demand.

Senator Millen, who followed, said that we should discard the assurances that we were on the verge of victory, no matter how high the authority for the statement. We had a long way to go yet. There were only two doors by which we could leave the war—the door of victory or the door of defeat. The stories that Germany was at her last gasp were contradicted by her advance in the Balkans. Instead of sending our reinforcements in dribs and drabs we should send them by the ship load. (Applause.) He largely blamed the authorities for giving only the best and withholding the bad news. We had to combat this state of affairs and make up the shortage by appeals, which, if the public had been given the real story of the fighting, would have been unnecessary. He hoped, however, that the appeals being made would not be made in vain. (Cheers.)

Mr. David Storey, M.L.A., and Mr. Hoskins, M.L.A., also spoke.

AT BALMAIN.

Three pronounced anti-conscriptionists, Mr. John Storey, M.L.A., Senator Grant, and Mr. Peter Bowling, spoke strongly in advocacy of recruiting at a meeting held in Balmain Town Hall last night. An address was also delivered by Miss Grace Scobie, the chair being occupied by the Mayor (Alderman H. P. Scott).

"In Australia we enjoy all the freedom that the Briton expects; we want to maintain that, and in order to do so we want the people to realise that if the numbers we can send are not as great as those sent out by the Government and their supporters, we will, at least, send as many men as we reasonably can to give assistance to those who have already gone to the front." Thus spoke Mr. John Storey, M.L.A., vice-president of the State Recruiting Committee, in moving a motion that those present pledge themselves to assist the recruiting campaign. As one who had taken a prominent part in the anti-conscription campaign the speaker emphasised that most careful inquiry had convinced him that there was no foundation to the contention of some people that the Government—State or Federal—was wilfully bringing about unemployment in order to make men become soldiers. He believed that if they realised the true position at the present time many men over 40 years of age would, if allowed to do so, go to the war, and that they would not be looking for recruits in the way they were.

The motion was seconded by Alderman Chubb, and carried unanimously.

On the motion of Miss G. Scobie, a branch of the Win-the-War League was formed.

Senator Grant and Mr. Peter Bowling also spoke.

MEETING AT WAVERLEY.

The Mayor of Waverley (Alderman H. Rogers) presided at a meeting held last night at the Waverley Town Hall in support of the recruiting movement. He said that every effort was required to impress upon all eligible men the necessity of a prompt response to the Empire's call for more men. They should endeavour to secure the sympathy of all people in the Win-the-War League.

It was decided to hold a public meeting at an early date at Bondi to help recruiting, and also the war loan. Mr. J. E. Messenger was appointed assistant by the secretary to the movement, Mr. E. B. Kenyon, town clerk. Committees were appointed.

AT ALEXANDRIA.

A meeting in connection with the recruiting campaign was held in the Alexandria Town Hall last night. Alderman Ralph was in the chair.

Mr. Hickey, M.L.A., said that it was essential that every man who was capable of bearing arms should enlist to preserve the prestige of the Australian army in the field.

Sergeant Donald, a returned soldier, appealed on behalf of his comrades in the trenches to keep the army up to its full fighting strength.

MEETING AT MANLY.

A well-attended combined meeting of the Win-the-War and local war service committees took place in Victoria Hall, Manly. A working committee of those present was formed. Arrangements were made to hold meetings at regular intervals, and it was decided that at the next one a list of the names of about 186 eligibles in the district should be submitted to the canvassers, who would be instructed to proceed on the card system.

RALLY AT MOSMAN.

A loyal response was made last night to the call to a recruiting rally in the Mosman Town Hall. The chair was taken by the Mayor (Alderman Smith), and the principal speaker was the organising secretary of the State Recruiting Committee (Captain Coates), but a novelty was introduced by the introduction of the "Cheer-o Girls"—a body of local amateurs—who gave, in costume, several concerted patriotic items.

Dealing with the more serious side of the night's business, Captain Coates said a grave warning should go out to every man and woman capable of doing something for the Empire—and that meant everybody. Great Britain and her Allies had to win this war. But, at the present time, there was no certainty that they were going to snatch the victory. People were too prone to speak of it as of an absolute certainty. He maintained it was no certainty, and he was no pessimist. He could not shut his eyes to the fact that Germany, up till now, was the victor. He could not bring himself to the belief that Australians would be quitters. All that was required was the awakening of the conscience of the youth of the land. (Applause.)

WOMEN'S SERVICE CORPS.

At a committee meeting of the Australian Women's Service Corps, the following resolution was carried unanimously, viz.:—"That if women are to be of assistance in recruiting all men unfit for service for any reason whatever, shall be compelled to wear a badge, so that they will not be approached as fit and eligible men." The general meeting of members to consider the best method of assisting with recruiting will be held on Thursday, at 8 p.m., in the assembly hall, Education-buildings.

A CIRCULAR LETTER.

The attention of the organising secretary of the State Recruiting Committee has been drawn to a circular letter addressed by Mr. R. J. Stuart Robertson, M.L.A., to the secretary of each branch of the P.L.L. The circular reads:—"I am enclosing herewith a petition for the release of certain soldiers now doing sentences in Goulburn, to which, I am informed, they were conveyed in leg-irons. Will you please obtain as many signatures as you can, and as early as you can."

The secretary stated that this allegation was being fully investigated by the State Recruiting Committee, and that at present he could not indicate what action was being taken, other than that the statement was being referred to the proper authorities.

COUNTRY CONFERENCES.

DUBBO, Monday.

The executive of the local recruiting committee has decided to bring the following matters before the conference of the Darling Federal electorate recruiting committees, to be held at Dubbo on Wednesday:—Remission of rents to settlers during the period of their active service and 12 months after; uniform standard of physical fitness for the A.I.F.; immediate provision by the Federal Government for the repatriation of returned soldiers.

NARRABRI, Monday.

A conference of delegates of recruiting committees within the Gwydir electorate was held in the Town Hall at Narrabri on Saturday night. It was decided to approach the central executive with regard to assisting returned soldiers to obtain work, and also to report to the various branches what work was available and the nature of it. On the suggestion of the chairman it was decided to approach the authorities in regard to making citizens' drill compulsory in preparation for home defence. The motion received considerable opposition, but was eventually passed.

SOLDIERS ON THE LAND.

Speaking at the conference of War Service committees, held at Cooma on the 23rd instant, Mr. Austin Chapman, M.P., stated that it was vitally necessary for the Government to alter its present policy in regard to the settlement of returned soldiers on the land. He pointed out that instead of settling them out on the western plains and other western districts, they should be, as far as possible, settled on estates adjacent to the railway. The conference passed the following resolution:—"That the Eden-Monaro Federal Electorate urge the Federal Government to make better provision for returned soldiers, by resuming land in the districts to which the men belong, and settling them upon it."

WAR SERVICE LEVY.

In order to meet the expenses of the Werriwa Federal electorate executive committee, it was agreed to start a fund, of which Alderman Wood, Mayor of Goulburn, was to be treasurer, by requesting each war service committee to make a levy of 20s per month. News from the Robertson electorate (Singleton) shows that the Win-the-War League is meeting with widespread support.

BATTALION BADGES.

A military order states that returned soldiers of the Australian Imperial Force and Naval and Military Tropical Force, who have re-enlisted or are appointed to a military unit for service in Australia, may wear the distinctive colours of the unit of the Australian Imperial Force to which they belonged on the right arm, in addition to the returned soldiers' arm badge, authorised to be worn on the left arm.

CAMP ENTERTAINMENTS.

The work being done by the Soldiers' Entertainments' Committee is very much appreciated by officers and men in all camps. A few days ago Colonel Lamrock, V.D., Commandant of the Liverpool Camp, invited Mr. and Mrs. G. Earp to meet the senior officers and chaplains to talk over various matters of detail relative to the organisation and conduct of concerts. A concert roster was drawn up and the camp secretary, Chaplain Paton, was authorised to keep in touch with the central committee, of which Mrs. Earp is honorary secretary. The quartermaster (Captain Grace) and Mrs. Earp were appointed to wait upon the Garrison Institute with a view to allocating to the entertainment committee a larger subsidy than hitherto. It was unanimously decided to ask the central committee to appoint Major Strong, the retiring quartermaster, who has done so much for the men's entertainment, to a seat thereon.

GENERAL'S APPEAL FOR MEN.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

The Director-General of recruiting, Mr. Mackinnon, M.L.A., states that the urgency of the call for men was set out in a letter dated November 2, from Brigadier-General Antill of New South Wales to a friend in Victoria. It was written from the French front, and contained the following passage:—"The point is that from now on for six months is the most critical time in this war, and it is going to be won or lost during that period. There can be no doubt about this, and the leakage in France from casualties is, and always has been, very great. We have to keep an unbroken front at this juncture, and we must have men at whatever cost. This is what the people of Australia have got to face. It is no use sending us men who are not in the prime of life. None but the best will do, and we shall require a lot more before the game is won. Our men have done much splendid work here, but they never seem to get any rest. They are most reliable and are magnificent fighters; they never let go what they have once won. The discipline is very high, and all Australians should be proud of them."

TO-NIGHT'S MEETINGS.

Leichhardt Town Hall, 8 p.m. (Mr. Donald McKinnon, M.L.A., Director-General of Recruiting), Mr. J. Storey, M.L.A., Captain Coates (organising secretary), Mr. T. L. Bathurst (secretary, R.S.A.), and Miss Evans.

The Field Artillery will be transferred from the Warren to Liverpool this week, and the former camp will be closed as a measure of administrative economy.

FLOODS IN QUEENSLAND.

HUGHENDEN, Monday.

The Flinders River was running about six feet deep on Saturday, and has backed up Station Creek a considerable distance.

Considering the extraordinary falls recorded on the head waters of the Thompson it is feared Muttaburra and Longreach are in for heavy floods. Burslem, Gelsbie, and Bibel waters run into Cornish Creek and the Landsborough, which junction at Muttaburra.

THE LONDON EXPLOSION.

Many anxious inquiries have been made by the relatives of the Australian munition workers who are employed in England concerning the recent explosion near London. In reply to a cable from Sydney reading: "Are any Australian workmen injured by explosion?" Messrs. Vickers, Ltd., have cabled: "No Australians affected."

WHEAT CROP BURNT.

GUNDAGAI, Monday.

A fire started on Mr. O. Dowling's wheat paddock at Coolac whilst stripping operations were in progress, and 120 acres of standing crops were burned.

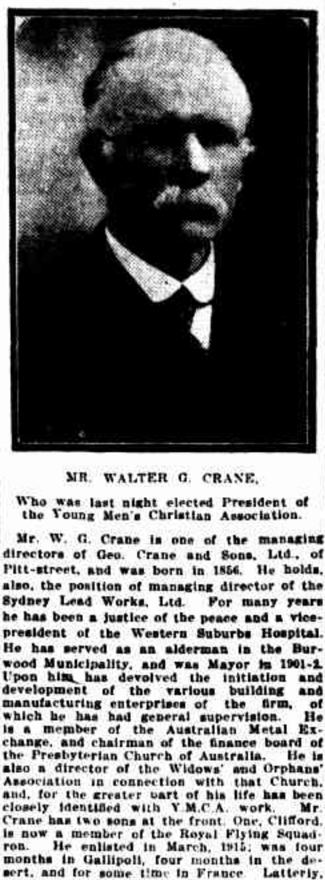
EXPORT OF ONIONS.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

Senator Russell states that the Federal Ministry does not propose to interfere with the export of onions if the crop is large enough to supply local requirements at reasonable rates and provide for a normal exportable surplus.

Y.M.C.A. PRESIDENT.



MR. WALTER G. CRANE,

Who was last night elected President of the Young Men's Christian Association.

Mr. W. G. Crane is one of the managing directors of Geo. Crane and Sons, Ltd., of Pitt-street, and was born in 1856. He holds, also, the position of managing director of the Sydney Lead Works, Ltd. For many years he has been a justice of the peace and a vice-president of the Western Suburbs Hospital. He has served as an alderman in the Burwood Municipality, and was Mayor in 1901-2. Upon him has devolved the initiation and development of the various building and manufacturing enterprises of the firm, of which he has had general supervision. He is a member of the Australian Metal Exchange, and chairman of the finance board of the Presbyterian Church of Australia. He is also a director of the Widows' and Orphans' Association in connection with that Church, and, for the greater part of his life has been closely identified with Y.M.C.A. work. Mr. Crane has two sons at the front. One, Clifford, is now a member of the Royal Flying Squadron. He enlisted in March, 1915; was four months in Gallipoli, four months in the desert, and for some time in France. Latterly, applications were called to fill 20 positions in the Royal Flying Squadron. Five hundred answers were received, and, among the 20 chosen was Clifford Crane. The second son is a sergeant of signallers. He also served in Gallipoli, and in Egypt, and was actually in the last boat to leave the Peninsula at the time of the evacuation. He has sent to his father the last telegram that was sent from Gallipoli at the time of the "silent evacuation." In addition Mr. Crane has four nephews at the front, and another nephew has just enlisted.

NEWTOWN MUNICIPALITY.

The Mayor of Newtown, Alderman C. H. Turtle, in presenting his annual minute to the council, said that the rate of 3¼d on the unimproved capital value of land had produced £19,309, most of which had been expended on local works. The sum of £900 had been paid off the principal of the council's loan. The carriageways in the municipality had been greatly improved, as also had the public lighting by electricity. Efforts are being made to have the Newtown bridge improved, by resuming the City Bank premises, and throwing the land into the carriageway and footpaths of King-street, thus removing a most dangerous corner, and by extending the bridge over the railway track as far as Denison-street.

A MATTER ABOVE PARTY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—The public and the Press have lately been showing some very natural restiveness—the leader in your Saturday's issue is a conspicuous instance of this—at the delay which is taking place in settling the basis of a national agreement between the various political parties. The urgent necessity of arriving at such agreement so as to give us a settled definite policy on the war, and also to enable us to be properly represented on the War Council, to be held in London in March, is being daily forced upon our attention. Let us look for a moment at the situation, so that in the absence of any explanation from Mr. Hughes or Mr. Cook a reasonable conclusion may be formed as to who is responsible for the delay. Mr. Tudor has defined the position of his party clearly enough. He has declared the absolute hostility of his party to Mr. Hughes by reason of the conscription policy of the Prime Minister, and his party has done everything possible to maintain the domination of that section of the Labour party at the expense of the reputation of the Commonwealth on the wider issue of national duty. Since the conscription campaign Mr. Tudor's party has stood outside of all movements to form a National Government. His reason for this attitude as a party leader is obvious, but I hope at even this late hour that wiser counsel will prevail. The Prime Minister has sacrificed the confidence and support of a large section of the party that he had taken such pains to build up. While his judgment in many cases has been at fault, no one will doubt his loyalty and zeal. Mr. Cook, the leader of the Liberal party, has also made his position so clear on this matter that no one with an open mind could make any mistake about it. He has at all times stood by Mr. Hughes in his policy of active prosecution of the war, and, without having been entrusted by the Government with a voice in shaping the policy, he has loyally and ungrudgingly accorded Mr. Hughes his support in the administration of it. Again, when the rupture in Mr. Hughes's party took place, and Mr. Cook found himself in the position of leader of the most numerous party in the Commonwealth Parliament, and when he could, by the exercise of the vote of his party in a perfectly constitutional way, have displaced Mr. Hughes and taken up the reins of government, he unselfishly and generously refrained from pressing his party advantage, in order to maintain and concentrate as far as possible the public support for the man who had become charged with the responsibility of assisting to win the war. Mr. Cook's position in this respect was not free from criticism. As the leader of the Liberal party and supporter of the Government in its war policy, he accepted the responsibility of that policy without the advantage of having a voice in framing it, and without any direct administrative control. But it was a chivalrous position for the leader of the Opposition to take up, and it will appeal to the highest sentiments of the public. The same high ground was taken up by all the political leaders in England in the early days of the war, but it was afterwards found unworkable, and the National Government, representing Liberals, Unionists, and Labour, was formed. It was the only way to secure unity and cohesion, and an active uniform co-operation based upon full information. The real improvement in England's war organisation can be traced to that union, and the policy of the National Government since culminating in the leadership of Mr. Lloyd George—one of England's greatest statesmen—has developed to a point which meets with the commendation of all sections of the Empire as well as their allies.

In the light of this, is it not obvious that some similar union should be formed here. The advice of the Commonwealth in common with other parts of the Empire has been asked for by the British Government on the most momentous questions that were ever discussed in the Empire, and upon which the future of Australia may depend. When such advice is given it should represent the true opinion of all classes of the people. Looking at all these factors it is clear that the delay in arriving at a settlement must be sought outside of both Mr. Hughes and Mr. Cook, and it remains for the people's representatives in Parliament to releive them both from any selfish or party considerations which may be hampering them in their negotiations. I have, perhaps, been one of the most pronounced supporters of the Liberal party for many years in Australia, but when this great national issue first arose I did not hesitate for a moment to advocate before a shot was fired the cessation of all party conflict. On August 8, 1914, I sent to one of our prominent representatives in the Federal Parliament the following telegram:—

"Strong feeling that election should be avoided at this juncture. Honourable understanding should be arrived at for election when matters settle down. All interests subordinated to claims of Empire. Hope splendid feeling unanimity prevailing will not be disturbed by party conflict."

Since then I have consistently advocated this view—subordinating all other questions to that of winning the war. If our boys in the trenches can make common cause without regard to class, creed, or party or politics, surely they have the right to expect the same unity at home. It would be deplorable if we allowed any party divisions here to prevent our giving the Empire the same whole-hearted support as our boys are giving in the trenches.

I am, etc.,

CASUALTIES.

DIVED INTO SHALLOW WATER.

An inquiry was held by the acting City Coroner, Mr. J. Jamieson, yesterday, into the circumstances connected with the death of Daniel Smith, 58, who died from injuries sustained at the men's baths, Coogee, on January 22. Reginald Culhane, of 91 Windsor-street, Paddington, said that he was in the baths on the day in question, and saw deceased standing on the edge of the platform at the shallow end. Deceased stood there for about ten seconds when he dived head foremost into the water. Deceased then rose and floated face downwards. Witness went to his assistance and carried him out. There was about three feet of water where deceased dived in. A verdict of death from injuries accidentally received was returned.

Evidence of a similar nature was heard at the same court in connection with the death of Joseph Henley, who died at the Balmain Hospital on January 22. William John Stewart, living at No. 10 Church-street, Balmain, stated that he was with deceased on the night of January 20. Prior to the accident deceased appeared to overbalance, and he dived in such a manner as to avoid striking his little daughter, who was playing in the water. Witness was of the opinion that Henley did not intend to dive from where he did. Deceased came to the surface, and witness saw that he was hurt. He carried him ashore, and he was then removed to the Balmain Hospital, where he died two days later. A finding of accidental death was returned.

UNKNOWN MAN'S DEATH.

About 4 p.m. on Saturday a man, whose identity has not yet been established, was seen to fall down in the St. Leger reserve, Kensington racecourse. He was picked up in an unconscious condition, and conveyed by the Civil Ambulance to Sydney Hospital, where Dr. Daniel pronounced life extinct.

The following is a description of the deceased:—About 50 years of age, 5ft 4in high, fair hair, and light brown moustache; he was dressed in a navy blue suit, black and white cotton shirt, black hard hat, and was wearing black lace-up boots.

DROWNED IN JOHNSTONE'S BAY.

At the City Coroner's Court yesterday an inquest was held by Mr. J. Jamieson into the death of George Alexander Kent, who was drowned in Johnstone's Bay on January 20.

William James Grady stated that he and deceased boarded the ferry steamer Lady Denman at Erskine-street. Deceased was seated on a hand rail at the gangway of the boat when he slipped and overbalanced. William Lawrence, a fireman employed on the ferry steamer, jumped into the water, but deceased sank before he could reach him. A verdict of accidental drowning was returned.

FATAL FALL.

William Harbin, 18, a seaman, fell from the mast to the deck of the steamer Orari, berthed at Woolloomooloo Bay, yesterday morning. He was taken by the Civil Ambulance to Sydney Hospital, where he was found to be suffering from a fractured skull, and died a few minutes after admission.

SEAMAN'S DEATH.

George Cordeaux, 59, whose home is at Westcliffe, England, lately employed as a greaser on board a steamer berthed at Circular Quay, was found in an unconscious condition at the foot of a stairway on the port side of the vessel. The Civil Ambulance conveyed him to Sydney Hospital, where he was admitted suffering from a fracture of the base of the skull. He died soon after admission.

WHARF LABOURER INJURED.

Whilst working on Taylor's Wharf, Darling Harbour, yesterday evening, Robert Donaldson (40), a wharf labourer, who lives at 108 Evans-street, Rozelle, sustained a fractured skull, as a result of being hit by a bag of wheat which had fallen from the top of a grain elevator. The Civil Ambulance conveyed him to Sydney Hospital, where he was admitted.

KICKED BY HORSE.

Alfred Jacob Barry, aged 35, a fruit dealer, who resides in Walker-street, Waterloo, was driving a cart yesterday afternoon, when the horse suddenly shied, and kicked through the footboard of the vehicle. Barry, who was sitting in the front of the cart, had his left leg fractured. He was conveyed to Sydney Hospital by the Civil Ambulance.

WOMEN'S HOSPITAL.

Yesterday afternoon Judge Backhouse presided over a meeting of the subscribers of the Women's Hospital, Crown-street. On the motion of Mrs. Merivale, seconded by Dr. S. K. MacCulloch, the following officers were elected:—President, Judge Backhouse; vice-presidents, Mrs. G. M. Merivale and Miss M. Harris; trustees, Judge Backhouse, Mesdames G. M. Merivale and T. H. Kelly, Messrs. G. M. Merivale and H. C. Hoyle, M.L.A.; directors, Lady Barton, Mesdames J. A. Dean, R. M. Sly, G. F. Earp, Stuart Osborne, Walter Brunton, C. L. Loney, Robert Richards, J. M. A. Bonthorne, and Miss M. A. Allison, and Mr. David Fell; hon. treasurer, Mrs. R. S. Wickham; auditors, Messrs. Perry and Johnson.

The meeting was then adjourned till a date that will be found acceptable to his Excellency the Governor, who will then preside. It was resolved that a linen tea should be held in support of the institution about the middle of March.

PRICE-FIXING.

The State Commonwealth Prices Commissioner, Mr. Val. Ackerman, left for Melbourne last night, accompanied by Mr. R. Sumner, the Queensland Prices Commissioner, to attend a conference of the various State Commissioners, to consider the best means of arriving at unanimity of action in regard to price-fixing throughout Australia.

DEATH AT FRENCH'S FOREST.

Mr. H. Gunn, of Westbourne-street, Drummoyne, was working at French's Forest with the Government Printing Office Rifle Club, clearing an allotment for returned soldiers, when he had a sudden seizure, and died from heart failure. At the funeral this afternoon, at the Field of Mars Cemetery, the LonePine Memorial Band and the Government Printing Office Rifle Club will head the cortege.

CHILD'S BODY FOUND.

"COLD-BLOODED MURDER."

MELBOURNE, Monday.

Giving evidence at an inquest held at Geelong to-day concerning an unknown infant found in the sewer on Saturday, Dr. Newman stated that the portions of the body found at the sewage outlet corresponded with the other portions found in the sewer in the city. The infant had lived, and his opinion was that death had been caused by mechanical means, probably by the division of the body at the neck with an axe. The body had been cut into sections to enable the fragments to be forced into the sewer pipes. This had been done with a sharp, heavy instrument.

The Deputy Coroner said it was clearly shown that a cold-blooded murder had been performed by some unknown person, who was either of unsound mind or was an inhuman monster.

At the request of the police, he adjourned the inquest for a fortnight, to permit of further investigation.

FRENCH'S FOREST.

The Australian Women Service Corps—about 1000 strong—has decided to assist the regular voluntary work at the settlement. They made a commencement on Sunday with a contingent of over 100, and did very serviceable work. Groups of a similar number will go out each week-end until the work they have decided upon is finished. It will take over three months. To help them in their work they would be glad of 50 strong canvas carriers, 6ft long and 3ft wide, with double handles at both ends and in the middle; also 50 12 to 14 prong rakes, old or new, also the "K" attachment to same. Mr. C. Dwyer, Harbour Trust, Fort Macquarie, has consented to receive contributions.

LATE MR. W. C. MACDOUGALL.

Mr. Walter Cummins MacDougall, who recently died at Balmain, at the age of 61, was the proprietor of the "Balmain Observer," and had been a director of the Balmain Ferry Company for 33 years. The late Mr. MacDougall took a keen interest in politics, and on one occasion allowed himself to be nominated for selection in the interests of the Liberal party. Before the ballot, however, he withdrew in favour of another candidate, whose chances of victory he thought were more favourable.

STAMP DUTY.

Last week the amount of stamp duty received in New South Wales in respect of probate and letters of administration, was £7523 1s 4d.

NORTH SHORE HOSPITAL.

APPEAL FOR FUNDS.

The annual meeting of the committee of the Royal North Shore Hospital took place in the North Sydney Town Hall last night. Major J. R. Carey presided. The report of the work performed for the preceding year showed that a total of 4060 persons received treatment. Of the 1445 indoor patients treated there were 656 males and 789 females; 829 were cured, 357 were relieved, 74 were discharged unrelieved, 105 deaths occurred, and 80 patients remained still under treatment at the close of the year. Very generous response had met the appeals for financial assistance, but regret was expressed that the contributions from patients had not been all that they might be. The amount received towards the cost of their maintenance during the year was £1264 5s 6d, which represents an average of 4s 4d per week per patient treated. Altogether a total of 830 patients were unable to pay any sum towards their maintenance. The total receipts for the year were £8309 5s, of which £803 represented general subscriptions. There was an overdraft at the bank of £1193 9s 2d, while the total expenditure amounted to £9420 15s, leaving a balance in hand of £81 19s 2d.

During the course of his remarks the chairman stated that the past year's work indicated clearly that a strenuous effort must be made to increase the income of the institution to meet the demands made upon its resources. The year just entered upon would find the hospital in debt. Funds were urgently needed.

The following were elected office-bearers for the ensuing year:—President, Major J. R. Carey; vice-presidents, Messrs. G. F. Bailey, Alex. Thomson, J. W. Eaton, Frank George; directors, Messrs. A. E. Whatmore, R. Forsythe, J. S. Vincent Welch, James Ford, and Mrs. Wynne Watkins; auditors, Messrs. H. A. Clarke, and T. W. Macro; hon. treasurer, Mr. Alex. D. Peden.

FIRE AT LEICHHARDT.

GREAT DAMAGE.

Shortly after half-past 10 o'clock last night an outbreak of fire was discovered in a building occupied by Mr. J. E. Hoult, furniture and cabinet maker, and Miss E. Henderson, milliner, at 275 Parramatta-road, Leichhardt. The Stanmore, Balmain, Leichhardt, Glebe, Newtown, and headquarters brigades attended, but before they could succeed in extinguishing the flames the building, with its contents, was completely burnt out.

Although the blaze had a good hold upon the premises when the firemen arrived, the buildings adjoining were not totally destroyed. The cause of the outbreak is not known.

Despite the efforts of the firemen the flames quickly spread to the buildings on either side, occupied by Mr. Charles Tranter, confectioner, and Mr. Wm. Palmer, general storekeeper. Both establishments were severely damaged by fire and water, whilst the premises occupied by Messrs. Fallstow and Company, cabinetmakers, at 279 Parramatta-road, were severely affected by fire, smoke, and water. Messrs. George Hunter and Sons' premises also suffered considerable damage.

Two hydrants and one motor were brought into use, but it was not until after three hours' hard fighting that the brigades succeeded in getting the flames under control.

Although the amount of the insurances has not yet been ascertained, it is believed that the damage will total several thousand pounds, as not only the buildings mentioned, but a number of other properties were slightly damaged by fire.

THE WEATHER.

The rainfall associated with the heavy thunderstorm and vivid lightning in the city on Sunday evening amounted to 21 points, and the total fall during the week-end was 36 points. In other parts of the metropolitan area, however, the showers were much heavier, and at St. Marys 105 points were recorded. The country districts also experienced many thunderstorms, some of which were of a violent character, and light to heavy rain occurred generally on the south-west slopes and at scattered places in all the other divisions.

Prospects favour the occurrence of further scattered thunderstorms, and cooler temperatures should soon ensue, owing to the approach of a southerly change. Rain began to fall in the city shortly before 8 o'clock last night, and up to 9 o'clock 13 points of rain had been registered at the Weather Bureau.

RED CROSS JAM.

It was stated on Saturday at the headquarters of the Red Cross Society in Sydney that the branches of the society throughout New South Wales have responded splendidly to the request of the commissioners abroad that Australian-made jam should be sent to the Australian soldiers who are in hospital or in convalescent homes. Between 25 and 30 tons of jam are "in sight," and the only difficulty is in getting a sufficient number of tins. The labelling is being done at the No. 1 Produce Depot. Under the direction of Mrs. Creed, who is assisted daily by a number of voluntary aids, the Red Cross jam factory is now in full working order at 225A George-street.

LIEUT. STABBACK.

Mr. W. J. Stabback, of Belmore-road, Coogee, has just received news that his son, Sergeant J. W. Stabback, of the A.A.M.C., section of one of the Australian battalions in France, has passed the officers' school and been granted his commission. Lieut. Stabback has twice been mentioned in despatches and decorated with the Russian medal—the Cross of the Order of St. George.

GARRISON HOSPITAL.

A letter has been received by the hon. secretaries of the Red Cross Society from the Garrison Hospital, Victoria Barracks, in which Lieut.-Colonel Crawford Robertson, medical officer in charge, expresses the gratitude of the patients not only for the Christmas dinner but for generous supplies during the year 1916. In the letter it is acknowledged that the Red Cross Society provides many little things which are not included by the military authorities in the list of necessary commodities, and which are keenly appreciated by the men in hospital.

ROBBERY IN CITY.

Early on Sunday morning a lady's gold muffchain, three diamond rings, £200 in £10 notes, and 10/ in silver, the property of Mrs. Alice Pengally, were stolen from the Crescent Hotel, George-street, Sydney.

PRIVATE SCHOOLS.

Teachers of private and denominational schools are advised by the Department of Education that it is proposed to supply them with class rolls and various other forms which are required to enable them to carry out the duties devolving upon them through the amendment of the Public Instruction Act in the matter of compulsory education. A list has been obtained from the Statistician of all private and denominational schools, and forms of application for registration will be issued to them this week.

ESCAPEE RECAPTURED.

Joseph Hackschal, who escaped from the concentration camp at Holdsworthy on the 25th inst., was recaptured in Sydney yesterday morning by Constable Gorman.

LATE MR. JOHN R. MOORE.

The death is reported of Mr. John Redding Moore, a well-known pastoralist, and part-owner of Mooreland station, Moree. The deceased gentleman was born in western Victoria 62 years ago. For the last 30 years he was prominently identified with pastoral pursuits in the Moree district. He was chairman for three years of the Boolooroo Shire Council, of which he had been a councillor since the introduction of local government. He was president for two years of the Moree Pastoral and Agricultural Society. He was also connected with the management of the Moree Hospital, and with most matters affecting the progress of the district. The late Mr. Moore was a member of the Australian Jockey Club, and he was a regular visitor to the Randwick meetings. He leaves a widow and one daughter. His brothers, Messrs. Thomas F. Moore, Bryan, F. Moore, and Patrick James Moore were partners with him in Mooreland station. Another brother, Mr. Francis R. Moore, is owner of Hillstead station, Moree.

MINING.

BRIGHTER MARKET FOR WESTONIAS

An improved market ruled for mining scrip on the local Exchange yesterday.

The copper section bore a healthy air, most ventures holding out on firmer quotes, though holders of Mount Cuthberts weakened 3d but could not locate buyers. Though Hampdens attracted better bids the sale price dropped 1½d to 32/3 on noon 'Change, while a further decrease of 3d, followed by a partial recovery to 32/1½, completed the day's operations on this concern. Business in Morgans was limited to an odd lot, which changed hands with an increase of 3d.

Barriers were practically neglected, and, owing to the non-appearance of buyers until the afternoon 'Change operations were hampered considerably. Still, most sellers increased their reserves, thus creating a solid basis for dealing. Though bids for British old were more liberal, holders raised their valuations on every call. A good opening at 28/6 was followed by an increase of 3d for a cash transaction, while for six weeks' delivery a booking was made at sellers' asking. An upward trend in Souths resulted in the passing of a small parcel at an addition of 1/6. A satisfactory return from the Junction North mine kept values firm at 7/9.

For business in tin propositions all eyes were turned to Malay interests. Nervous holders of Ratruts spoilt last Saturday's temporary recovery, and a continuous weakening was traced throughout the day's doings. A falling off of 1/ to 13/9 eventuated for cash, while forward terms were given at 13/7½. Disconcerting rumours were afoot of threatening increases of taxation on the part of the Malay Government, and Kamunting Company, which bears the brunt of Imperial taxation, changed hands at a reduction of 9d. Kampongs put on 3d for a small lot.

Scanty attention was accorded local and interstate gold concerns, with the exception of the Westonian and Great Boulder fields. Buyers appeared for Great Boulders at 10/1½, and sellers, though not declaring on 'Change, refused to close at less than 10/3.

The Edna May group was well patronised, and viewed favourably from buyers' standpoint. The recent depression has fled, and all ventures benefited. The unlisted Edna Mays changed hands at an improvement of 7/, and closing rates disclosed a further improvement of 1/. The paid issue of Consols registered an increase of nearly 3/ to 11/9, while the contributing shares fared well, with an addition of 8d to 8/2. Centrals and Deeps showed material welfare, the former closing 1/ better, while the recovery in Deeps initiated in the week-end resulted in a further rally of 11d to 7/10. Golden Points provided exchange at 2/2.

MAJOR HOWSE.

Major A. Oswald Howse, brother of Surgeon-General Sir N. R. Howse, V.C., K.C.B., who left No. 2 General Hospital in 1914, and joined the 1st A.F.A., has returned to Sydney owing to ill-health. The major has been on active service since the beginning of the war, and was at Anzac Bay and Cape Helles. Since then he has been with the Australians in France.

THE DOMAIN SAFE—FOR THE PRESENT.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—It is most gratifying to find that a temporary solution of the urgent need for another venereal clinic has been found without encroaching on the Domain, and still more so to the writer, as it is on the lines of a suggestion made by him, viz.—to use temporarily some of the existing Sydney Hospital accommodation to the exclusion of less important cases. The present proposal is, however, a better one, as it does not reduce the present accommodation, and provides the nursing staff with a more airy dwelling-place, which is badly needed. This will tide over the present difficulty, but a permanently satisfactory solution is only to be found in decentralisation.

Statements have appeared in the Press that a meeting of protest was to be held in the Domain yesterday (Sunday). For the fact that it was not held I am alone responsible. At a joint meeting of the executives of the Parks Preservation Society and the Town Planning Association, I was appointed convener, and hence the decision was left in my hands. As the prospects became more hopeful, and having a wish to assist the Government, I refrained from action. If it had been taken it would have embraced a public meeting of citizens at the Town Hall, and a big petition, as well as a Domain gathering. Happily, they do not appear to be needed at present.

The danger of encroachment is, however, not yet past. The Anzac Buffet, when it is no longer wanted for its present purpose, must be removed instead of being pounced upon by some department in want of space, as was the case with that eye-sore, the old Technological Museum, which only disappeared after the most strenuous efforts to secure its removal. Further, it must not be forgotten that the present scheme for law courts takes a big slice off the Domain, and for the Public Library one of less area, but in a more valuable position. That more space is required for these buildings is undoubted, but it can be obtained in a much better way. This is shown in a scheme submitted to the Government by my association for a civic and governmental centre for Sydney that would meet all requirements for at least 50 years, and give better and larger sites for public buildings (including the law courts and Public Library) than any at present available. By it the total open area of Hyde Park and the Domain would also be slightly increased. If adopted, I can confidently assert that it will save the city millions of wasted expenditure in the future. The one building we did not retain is the Sydney Hospital, for, with the majority of the public, we hold that it is in the wrong place. This does not mean its abolition, but simply its transference, as soon as funds permit, to a larger, better, more open and airy, and yet easily accessible site, where it can carry on its splendid traditions of service to the sick and suffering with even greater success than in the past.

In conclusion, permit me, on behalf of my council, to thank you, Sir, for space and commendation, the executive of the Parks Preservation Society, for their loyal support and co-operation, and the other official bodies and individuals who have given valued advice and assistance in this short but so far successful campaign for the preservation of the Domain.

I am, etc.,
JOHN SULMAN,
President of the Town Planning Association of New South Wales.

SPORTING.

THE TURF.

Horseracing will be the attraction at Wyong Park this afternoon, and a six-event programme promises interesting sport. Visitors can reach the scene of operations by the ordinary trains leaving the Central Station for the north at 6.40 and 9.20 a.m., and by the specials leaving at 9.32 (horses), 10.15, and 10.40 a.m. The track is reported good going, and an early return to the city is promised.

The general entry for the V.R.C. autumn meeting at Flemington closes at 4 p.m. to-day with the secretary, Mr. H. Byron Moore, Bourke-street, Melbourne, and up to the same hour nominations will be received at the office of the A.J.C., Bligh-street, city. The added money for the 19 events for which entries are invited aggregates 9200 sovs, of which 3750 sovs endows the four w.f.a. races.

The committee of the Australian Jockey Club has decided to adopt the Premier totalisator for the Randwick Racecourse, and the work of manufacture and erection will be proceeded with at once. The contract provides that the installation is to be completed in time for Tattersall's Club spring meeting in September next.

The weights for the V.A.T.C. Oakleigh Plate and the V.R.C. Newmarket Handicap and Australian Cup are promised to-day.

COMMERCIAL.

THE MARKETS.

A fair business was done in shelf goods in the metal section yesterday, but heavy lines were slow, with the exception of galvanised iron. Corrugated galvanised iron was exceptionally scarce, especially eight and nine feet lengths. These were in heavy demand, on account of an anticipated shortage, and all distributers had full orders. Importers find it increasingly difficult to procure the galvanised iron from England, exports therefrom being curtailed in the interests of munitions. What this means to Australia may be judged from a comparison of imports this year with last year. For the five months of the present financial year imports of galvanised iron and plate and sheet iron into Australia—they are all lumped together by the Statistician or by the Customs Department—were of the value of £391,720, compared with £741,788 for the same period of 1915-16.

An active business was done in tea, principally for export to New Zealand. The next shipment of Ceylon teas will be due about the end of February. Stocks in first hands are believed to be small. There are no Indians and Ceylons and very little Java teas available. A cable received from Java yesterday stated that there is a possibility of Java resuming shipments to Holland, and, notwithstanding that there is an accumulation of stocks at Batavia, the vendors are not showing any disposition to sell. London quotes 1/ a pound for common tea. There are no auction sales announced at Calcutta or Colombo, on account of the exchange difficulty remaining unsettled. In Calcutta there is being sold privately about 2½ million pounds a week, and it is being shipped to Britain and Russia. None is coming to Australia.

BUTTER SUPPLY.

Business was normal in the dairy produce section of the Sussex-street markets yesterday. A fair supply of new-laid eggs was on hand, but the demand was strong, and a fair business was transacted. RAILWAY MARKET.

The accumulation of four days' supplies, both in position and outstanding, created unfavourable selling conditions at Alexandria yesterday, and the market was further weakened by the non-appearance of sufficient buyers to take off an appreciable part of supplies. Sales were of a slow nature, and grain chaffs ruled weaker, though lucerne hay moved out better to 4/9. A brisk sale occurred for South Australian onions at up to 9/6, while Victorian Pinkeyes had more liberal support at 6/3. The yarding included 154 trucks of forage, 20 of grain, and 11 of vegetables, while the manifest included 137 trucks of forage, 42 of grain, and 8 of vegetables.

HOMEBUSH STOCK SALES.

SHEEP AND LAMBS EASIER.

The total pennings of sheep and lambs at the Homebush sales yesterday were the smallest for a long time, only 6783 being listed. The offerings came from 28 owners, hailing from all the sheep districts of the State, and the consignments ranged from 1000 as the maximum number, down to single truckloads. In quality the sheep were satisfactory, but there were still odd pens of woolly sheep to be seen. These were not in special request. From the opening, although the aggregate in the pens was low, the market was not quite as good as on Thursday, buyers holding aloof from pushing the bidding up to extreme rates. Nevertheless, values were rather better than on Monday last, though they were lower than the best of Thursday. Store sheep were easier, as re-stockers were not much in evidence. The top price of the day—40/11—was obtained for some woolly wethers, but a few of the more notable prices obtained for shorn sheep were:—Account Mr. Ernest Atkinson, Beaubri, w 37/; S. A. L. Co., Matong, w 34/; Mrs. A. Dally, Binnaguy, xbd 36/6; C. A. Turner, Forbes, xbd w 35/10; E. F. Doyle, Werris Creek, xbd w 35/6; Mrs. Gunn, Wagga, xbd w 38/, xbd e 34/3; F. G. White, Tumblong, xbd w 34/3; Edgeroi Station, Edgeroi, w 33/6; T. and A. Jones, Binnaguy, xbd w 35/8.

Quotations.—Prime merino w and h to 33/, good to 29/, prime sh. wool merino w and h to 35/; really prime merino ewes were not noted; prime crossbred w and h to 34/, prime shortwool do. do. to 36/6, prime crossbred ewes to 34/, extra to about 35/10; prime shortwool do. to 35/, best to 37/5; odd pens of woolly crossbreds made to 40/11.

CATTLE.

About 1500 cattle were listed for sale from 55 owners. In quality they were satisfactory. The denominations ranged from heavy bullocks to calves. The market opened to free bidding, and values generally were not appreciably different from those of Thursday last, although some irregularities were noticeable in individual yards. As a rule, the condition of the beasts was good, but there were a few plain-bodied animals present. Summed up, there was a slight improvement in the average prices of last sale day, but the prices obtained were not equal to the highest rates of that day, nor were the heaviest offerings quite as heavy as Thursday's. Some of the best prices were:—Account M. and L. Mackenzie, Coonamble, bullocks to £21, avg. £20/0/5; T. E. Needham, Newbridge, bullocks to £22, avg. £19/0/8; W. J. Ward, Quirindi, bullocks to £21/8/, avg. £20/17/6; W. V. Dowling, Gular, bullocks to £29, avg. £18/16/.

Quotations:—Yards of prime medium-weight bullocks and steers to £20, heavy to £22; yards of prime light-weight bullocks and steers to £18/5/, good to about £15/10/, medium and light to about £13/10/; yards of prime cows and heifers to £16/10/, extra prime to £19, odd higher, good to £14/10/, medium to £10/10/, light and inferior lower. Best light beef to 58/, choice young (yearlings) higher, prime medium-weight beef to 50/, prime heavy (extra good quality) to about 45/, good trade beef 41/ to 44/ per 100lb.

Y.M.C.A.

A YEAR OF ACHIEVEMENT.

The report of the board of directors of the Young Men's Christian Association of Sydney, submitted at the annual meeting last night, shows that the past year has been one of achievement. "It is service that counts," says the report, and the real value to the community of the Y.M.C.A. can be accurately judged by the amount of recognition given to the work.

During the year ended December 31, 1916, the field service work in the camps was more than quadrupled, while the regular activities of the association were steadily maintained, and the £300 required for the support of a secretary in Hyderabad was forthcoming. The paid up membership had increased by 166, and the membership roll by 105, while 238 members had enlisted. In the social, physical, and educational departments, satisfactory results had been achieved, and the junior membership had increased by 85. Details of the work done by the field service department showed that of 100 secretaries sent abroad with the troops, 33 were from New South Wales, the staff of which branch had also been responsible for the equipment of troopships with Y.M.C.A. material. Practically every enlisted man had come into contact with the association, and 721 soldiers had made a profession of faith. The current indebtedness had decreased during the year from £1223 to £511.

In moving the adoption of the report, the acting president (Mr. E. K. Satchell) paid a tribute to the memory of the late Mr. John Kent, for many years president of the Y.M.C.A. He briefly outlined the activities of the association, saying that eligible members had given evidence not only of their loyalty, but also of their physical fitness, by enlisting almost to a man.

Mr. W. G. Crane said that a splendid future lay before the association, which had earned the gratitude of the community by reason of its efforts on behalf of the soldiers. In the discussion that followed, mention was made of the need for formulating a scheme whereby the Y.M.C.A. might be as helpful to the soldiers on their return as it had been on the field of battle.

The election of officers resulted as follows:—President, Mr. W. G. Crane; vice-presidents, Sir James R. Fairfax, Messrs. Hugh Dixson, E. K. Satchell, R. A. Dallen, F. Cocks, W. E. Shaw, C. H. Slatyer, H. Davies, A. B. Wilson, and J. M. Sandy; hon. treasurers, Mr. A. W. Meeks, M.L.C., and Mr. J. T. Tillock; hon. secretaries, Messrs. G. F. Caldwell and C. F. Vickery; board of directors, Messrs. J. M'Lean, C. Luke, J. C. Dunbar, A. J. R. Yabsley, J. B. Macartney, A. E. Spurway, J. Mars, A. P. N. Dalrymple, F. Whysall, C. Davison, W. R. Nairn, G. Price, A. B. Purcell, J. G. Cocks, and Dr. G. E. Rennie.

Mr. Wheeler, general secretary of the Adelaide Association, in the course of an interesting address, said that he had had an opportunity of studying Y.M.C.A. work in 76 centres of America. In that country the association had gained the everlasting gratitude of the people through its work in the Spanish-American war. He drew an analogy between the position in America and Australia, and expressed the hope that the association here, profiting by the example of America, would continue, at the conclusion of the war, to "make good."

Mr. Gillanders, general secretary, also addressed the meeting.

LADIES, What's the Matter With This Admission? A well-known Candy Manufacturer carrying on business in S. Hemisphere drove up in his cab to-day to view our pupils' work.

HE HAD HEARD SO MUCH ABOUT.

He was a JOHN BULL, and called A SPADE A SPADE. Scrutinising our Australian pupils' work after POST and PERSONAL TEACHING IN ONE LESSON, with varying expressions of countenance, he (with a mighty strong voice) said:

LOOK HERE, CROAKER, IT'S EASY TO SEE YOU'VE COMBINED THE ENGLISH FINENESS OF FLAVOUR WITH THE AMERICAN'S SPECTACULAR EFFECT, AND IT'S ONLY A MAN WHO TRAVELS AS YOU DO CAN EVER HOPE TO GET THAT COMBINATION. I TELL YOU FRANKLY, HE CONTINUED, NO MANUFACTURER HERE CAN EVER HOPE TO GET THE WONDERFUL RESULTS YOU HAVE, BECAUSE HE'S TOO BUSY TO TRAVEL, HAVING HIS WORKS TO LOOK AFTER, AND EVEN IF HE DID, HE COULD NEVER GET HIS WORKERS TO TAKE THE PAINS TO FINISH THE SWEETS AS YOU HAVE SUCCEEDED IN GETTING YOUR PUPILS. HERE'S MY HAND, AND I CONGRATULATE YOU. YOU'VE EARNED ALL THE PEOPLE CLAIM FOR YOU.

LADIES.—There's praise for YOU here with a vengeance for carrying out our lolly recipes. WON'T YOU VISIT US to see what will earn you 20/ daily at home, and what NO ONE ELSE CAN MAKE unless they pass through the hands of
